

RUSSIA BALKS TREATY PLAN

DECISION MAY GO TO TRUMAN, STALIN, ATTLEE

Foreign Chiefs Try Again Today

BY WILLIAM FULTON
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

LONDON, Oct. 2 (Tuesday)—The council of foreign ministers met until 2:50 a. m. today and decided to reconvene at 11 a. m. After three weeks of discussions, the quintet of the world's leading diplomats have been unable to reach agreement on the pattern for European peace treaties. This was the main purpose of the conference.

The stumbling block still was the unyielding stand of Foreign Commissar Molotov of the Soviet Union that only Russia, the United States, and Britain should draft a Balkan peace, thus excluding France and China. United States Secretary of State Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Bevin were just as insistent. France and China should sit at the peace table.

May Call on Chiefs of State

Diplomatic circles in London were buzzing as the foreign ministers prepared for the 11 a. m. session. One report was that the conference would end in a smash up and that President Truman, Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Attlee would hold another meeting such as the get together at Potsdam.

On the other hand, there is the school of thought that favored scrapping the idea of a council of foreign ministers as having shown itself unworkable and staging one big peace conference after the last war.

Inability of only five countries to agree also infused gloom into the architects of a new world order, who are planning for the first meeting of the 50 United Nations in December. These plans are being made here by the executive committee of the United Nations organization.

Three Meet Separately

During yesterday the various foreign ministers were in touch with their governments, trying to save the conference from a complete fiasco.

The meeting originally scheduled for 6 p. m. yesterday was twice postponed in the hope that some solution could be worked out. Finally it was called for 10 p. m. However, when the French and Chinese delegations arrived they were told Molotov, Byrnes, and Bevin had called a meeting for 9:30 p. m. but had been unable to start it because one member was late. The French returned to their hotel. The Chinese withdrew to their offices.

At 11 p. m. French Foreign Minister Bidault came back only to find the Americans, British, and Russians in a huddle.

The five ministers did not gather around the conference table until midnight. They soon discovered they still were at odds on the final protocol. Then followed a recess for the protocol committee to work on a new draft.

Molotov Grim and Bitter

Some one noticed that it was 2:45 a. m. and it was decided to end the session and meet again later.

Molotov, a grim and bitter look on his face, was the first to march to the door surrounded by his delegation and guards.

Roots of the deadlock lie in the declaration of the Potsdam conference which set forth that in preparation of peace treaties only those governments which had signed the surrender terms with the various axis belligerents would be eligible to frame the peace.

WARSAW TODAY: LAUGHTER AND PLENTY OF FOOD

BY HENRY WALES
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 29 (Delayed)—In this most thoroughly devastated city I have seen in Europe, I just ate the thickest steak I have had since Pearl Harbor.

Downtown streets here are lined with vendors selling beef, pork, mutton, cabbage, spinach, cauliflower, almond cakes, honey tarts, apples, pears, and grapes.

True, two pounds of grapes cost 2,400 zlotys [$480 at the official exchange rate of five to a dollar], but since the unofficial rate is 2,000 to 2,400 zlotys to a dollar they cost $1. The Polish finance ministry is dickering with foreign governments to peg the exchange rate at some approximate figure, instead of the pre-war rate of five to a dollar. In the meanwhile, foreigners at the Polonia hotel, which was not damaged because it was the headquarters of the German secret police during Nazi occupation, are living on the cuff. They sign for everything and will settle after the exchange rate is revised.

Fest and Tip for Life

Luncheon today included vermicelli soup, a bottle of excellent beer, a steak two inches thick, creamed spinach, carrots, biscuit tortoni with richer ice cream than that sold in America, and a glass of delicious coffee with a bowl of sugar. It cost 300 zlotys (12 or 15c) including the tip.

Along Panska street, country women sat on the sidewalk selling fat ducks, geese, roasting chickens, rabbits, and quail, and from pushcarts butchers, with huge shears sliced off hunks of tenderloin beef, pork chops, or legs of lamb.

An embassy official said:

"A large part of the city's population was evacuated, including the most destitute people, and farmers from this area bring their produce into Warsaw each day."

The Russians left most of the live stock and food supplies in Poland intact.

Impoverished women in black taffeta dresses today offered family silverware, heavy forks, tablespoons, steel bladed knives, and choice china for sale from tables, while others were selling great bunches of jonquils, chrysanthemums, and autumn roses. American soap, cigars, chewing gum, chocolate, and candy bars also were on sale.

Many Wear GI Uniforms

American Jeeps driven by Poles careened thru the streets. Most men wore American army uniforms with buttons and insignia removed and many women had GI shoes.

In spite of six years of war, occupation, and forced migration, the people looked healthier and happier than those of any other European capital I have visited, including London. They were warmly clad and chattered and laughed as they did their marketing, producing fat rolls of currency for purchases at fabulous figures.

Chic Polish girls wore cork soled wedgies and towering turbans and their legs were so tanned they seemed to be wearing nylons.

The railway bridge across the Vistula river has been repaired and a vehicular pontoon bridge has been installed.

Miss Florence Springer, 2714 N. Ridgeway av., Chicago, is the only Chicagoan on the embassy secretarial staff here. She is pretty homesick.

IT'S NOT ALWAYS AS MUCH FUN AS HE PLANS

Must Retain Bomb Secret, Connally Says

BY GEORGE TAGGE

Vigorous opposition to disclosing the secret of the atomic bomb to any other nation was expressed by Sen. Connally (D., Tex.), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, before the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention here yesterday.

He differed sharply with Clark M. Eichelberger, director of the American Association for the United Nations, who had recommended turning the bomb over to the general assembly of the United Nations organization.

"We found it first," said Sen. Connally. "It is ours, and the world can rest assured that we shall never use it except in our own necessary defense or in the interest of the peace of the world."

Nations He Wouldn't Trust

"Frankly, there are nations in the world that I wouldn't trust to restrict it to those two purposes. I hope I'm not striking a bum note here with Brother Eichelberger and others, but we have plenty of time to decide and consider to whom we will divulge the secret in an appropriate fashion."

"We did not divulge radar or other secret weapons during the war. The United States is a member of the security council (of the United Nations) and as such, when we are called upon to furnish an air contingent to preserve the peace of the world, that air contingent could carry along a bucket full of atomic bombs and stop any kind of outbreaks instantly."

"Under such conditions the security council would probably be able to outlaw war without the use of a large military force."

Should Set Up Control

"We should proceed immediately to set up appropriate machinery to work out plans for the control and use of atomic energy. We should not divulge the secret to other nations."

Earlier, Eichelberger, addressing the opening meeting of the V. F. W. 46th annual encampment in the Morrison hotel, had said that as quickly as possible a special committee should report on "what sovereignty should be sacrificed to prevent the new scientific discoveries from being used for aggressive purposes." Eichelberger was one of

HERO OF DOOLITTLE RAID, FREED AFTER 3 YEARS, PUT ON KP

Santa Ana, Cal., Oct. 1 (Special)—Back from more than three years of Japanese prison horrors, Staff Sgt. Jacob D. Deshaizer, 32, one of the heroes of the famed Doolittle raid on Tokyo, has been on kitchen police duty at this separation center.

Deshaizer, of Salem, Ore., was one of 40 returnees who had been scraping trays, washing coffee cups, and doing other KP chores.

The 40 men, who arrived at the army air base here Saturday, were put on K. P. yesterday and were off today.

Brig. Gen. Arthur E. Easterbrook, the commanding officer, explained that it was "an administrative error which I have corrected."

Army officers earlier had said that KP duty was being passed around "because we're very short handed here" and that there was no discrimination between former prisoners of war and other men awaiting discharge.

the nation's leading interventionists before Pearl Harbor.

The V. F. W. may act by resolution in the atomic bomb controversy. The bomb also will figure in the debate over the course to be recommended by the V. F. W. in the matter of compulsory military training.

Some veterans are skeptical of the military value of a huge reserve because of the bomb's discovery.

Veterans' welfare is the main theme of the convention. Gen. Omar Bradley, veterans' administrator, told a press conference that there is need for 1,300 more physicians to process the disability and pension claims which have been piling up rapidly since V-J day. Already there are 2,300 physicians in the veterans' administration.

Gen. Bradley also said care should be taken not to segregate veterans from every one else in tackling problems common to all. He will address the convention this morning in the Chicago Stadium.

Doolittle, Mitchner to Speak

Also on today's program are Lt. Gen. Doolittle, Vice Adm. Mitchner, Air Marshal Richard Williams of Australia, Gov. Green, and Mayor Kelly. Mitchner will speak at the annual banquet tonight.

Relatively few of the World War II veterans who are swarming into the V. F. W. are among the 10,000 members here. But next year and thereafter the young men will be in control, said World War I vets who are welcoming them into V. F. W. posts throughout the country.

Honestly, Al, Is This How to Rob Train?

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 1 (Special)—A tried and true formula for holding up a mail train was offered today by Al Jennings, 32, an admitted former outlaw.

Perhaps a bit out of practice now, but still full of vim and reminiscences, Jennings disclosed in Supreme court the method he used back in the '30s when he and his gang were the scourge of the southwest.

The one time badman is suing the Don Lee Broadcasting company for $100,000 for allegedly depicting him falsely on the Long Ranger program a year ago. He said the program portrayed him inducing a boy to join his gang and that his reputation was injured.

Didn't Know How at First

"At first we didn't know how to rob trains and didn't get enough even to feed our horses," he told a eager jury of 11 women and one man. "Then I thought of an old friend, a deputy marshal. I told him we would split with him for a tip-off."

"He asked 'Do you mean to insult my integrity?' I said, 'You never had any.'"

Jennings looked knowingly at each of the jurors and, at Judge Robert H. Scott.

Then he continued: "The first tip off netted us $60,000. We gave the tipster $10,000. When he started to count the money I said, 'I told you how much was there, Charlie.' He said, 'I was only checking to see.' I said, 'Do you think we're as dishonest as you are?'"

Hard to Watch Them All

"We never robbed a train unless we had a tip on a consignment of money. There wasn't much in robbing the passengers. You couldn't watch them all at once, and they hid their valuables. Besides, watches and jewelry are too easy to identify."

Jennings always had an alibi, too. He said he just called on the marshal, the county prosecutor, and other interested parties and confessed them about the date, so it appeared the robbery had taken place on a different date than it actually had.

"Do you mean you cooked up that alibi and used it?" C. B. Runkle, the defense lawyer, asked him.

"Why, yes," Jennings replied, "I told you I was a lawyer."

TB SANITARIUM FOOD INEDIBLE, ISBELL REPORTS

Probers Halt Use of Decayed Meat

BY ORVILLE DWYER

A committee from the Chicago Restaurant association appointed at the request of Mayor Kelly found the food at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium "so bad that the patients often could not, and should not, eat it." It was reported last night by Marion W. Isbell, chairman. Isbell is president of the association.

He said the committee intercepted spoiled raw meat on its way to the kitchens and prevented it from being cooked. He said the restauranters found the menus inappropriate and monotonous, and learned that some weeks hot dogs were the meat dish on two or three days. In other weeks tongue and corned beef were served. They found the food in general so poorly cooked it was unpalatable, he added.

Interview 100 Patients

The committee, he said, interviewed more than 100 patients and many nurses, attendants, and guards. All agreed that the food was intolerable.

"We were heartsick at what we discovered," the restaurant owner said. "One of the first things that greeted our eyes was the enormous quantities of food being taken back to the kitchens uneaten. When we investigated this we found out why. It simply could not be eaten."

Isbell said the committee stopped a large truckload of lamb on its way to the kitchens to be made into stew. Harry Reynolds, vice president of the sanitarium board, was with them.

"Let's see what this is?" Reynolds said. Isbell and two other members of the committee picked up chunks of the meat and smelled them.

"The meat was what we call 'slack,'" Isbell said. "We saw at once that it was decayed. When we smelled it there was no doubt."

"We took it to the kitchen and told them it would have to be thrown away. The woman in charge insisted on cooking it whether it was decayed or not. Can't we put some soda in the water or something?" she asked.

"I've seen restaurant owners like that—and they go broke. I learned from bitter experience that if you have meat that is not good the best thing to do is throw it out. It may cost $50 to do that; but it would cost $1,000, possibly $5,000, if it were served."

No Excuse for Conditions

"There is no excuse for anything like that at the sanitarium where those poor, sick people are. I'm not a doctor, but I know that food is almost everything where tuberculosis is concerned—food, fresh air, and sunshine. Most of all, good food."

Isbell said the committee heard three main complaints: 1. That the cooking was so poor the meals could not be eaten. 2. That eggs and meats frequently were old or spoiled or made unpalatable by the cooking. 3. That the same dishes were on the menu too often. He said the committee was told that relatives and friends had been bringing most of the food on which the patients subsisted.

Ask Washam to Take Over

The committee, Isbell said, recommended to Dr. Frederick Tice, president of the three man board of directors, that Frank O. Washam, director of the bureau of public school lunchrooms, be sent immediately to the sanitarium to see that the patients "get three good, wholesome, and well cooked meals a day."

In their report to Dr. Tice they pointed out that the restaurant association 11 years ago was responsible for placing Washam in charge of school lunchrooms. "Since then," the report said, "meals served in the high schools alone increased from almost 5 million to nearly 13 million a year."

On the committee with Isbell were A. J. Pixley, John Ricketts Jr., D. L. Toffenetti, and James P. Harding, all well known restaurant men.

Report Tells of President's Intercession

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1—Testimony of John A. Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company, that he lent $200,000 to Elliott Roosevelt because he was afraid to "incur the enmity" of Elliott's father, the late President Roosevelt, was placed before congress today.

Hartford was revealed in the evidence as an extremely reluctant lender, angry at being "ear marked" by the White House for the loan, and making it only because the President "practically asked me." Moreover, the chain store executive was "incensed and disturbed" when offered only 2 cents on the dollar three years later together with the information that "Elliott was broke, the collateral stock was no good, and the President was worrying about Elliott's finances." He gave in, but "it was my first and last loan to an individual," he said in his testimony.

800 Pages of Testimony

The house ways and means committee made public 800 pages of testimony by numerous witnesses on the loan, with the Democratic majority stating that the preponderance of the evidence justified a bureau of internal revenue ruling that Hartford was entitled to a $196,000 "bad debt" deduction on his income tax return because he received only $4,000 in settlement of the loan.

The Republican minority disputed this statement, declaring that the federal treasury must not be permitted to lose the tax on the $196,000. The minority said that if Hartford is entitled to the deduction, then positive steps should be taken to collect the tax on $196,000 income from Elliott and his former wife, Ruth, who now holds the stock given as collateral to Hartford. The stock, worthless when Hartford relinquished it for two cents on the dollar, now is worth $100 a share, according to the record.

F. D. R.'s Part Related

The testimony showed the part taken by the Hartford transaction by the late President. The loan was made March 31, 1933, and was settled three years later, at the request of the President, by Jesse Jones, then secretary of commerce, who paid Hartford $4,000 out of his own pocket.

The record showed that the late Rep. Sirovich (D., N. Y.) claimed that the President had spoken to him about assisting Elliott Roosevelt in obtaining a $200,000 loan for use in the Texas State Network, Inc., a radio chain organized by Elliott, and that the President had suggested that Caruthers Ewing, general counsel of the A. & P. chain stores, be contacted in order to obtain a

RADIO ACTOR MAKES ROLE CONVINCING; HE TAKES REAL POISON

Never in the extended career of Carl Kroenke, 50, of 5737 Kenmore av., radio actor, had he been so convincing as last night while rehearsing a show called "X Marks the Spot" in the television studio of WCKB on the 12th floor at 190 N. State st.

The script called for Kroenke, standing at a bar, to reach for a bottle labeled "Turpentine," pour himself a drink of the water which it contained, and swallow it. There upon the script called for him to make gasping, choking noises.

Kroenke was letter perfect. He reached for the bottle. He poured the drink. He swallowed it. He made gasping, choking noises. Tears flowed from his eyes. Then he committed the unpardonable sin. He deviated from the script.

"B for Babylon, K for Katz, fellows, I ain't kidding," he shouted.

Fellow actors investigated and found the bottle contained a poison. They took Kroenke across the hall to a naval radio technician's school, where some one hastily administered an antidote.

Then Kroenke was removed to a hospital, where he assured physicians that he is not a drinking man.

U. S. PROPOSES ARBITRATION IN OIL PAY STRIKE

Immediate Return to Work Asked

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—Labor Secretary Schwelmbach tonight proposed appointment of an impartial arbitrator to make a binding decision in the oil strike by Dec. 1.

Schwelmbach asked the CIO oil workers to return to work immediately and called on the oil industry management to resume full operations.

Pending a decision before the arbitrator, Schwelmbach asked workers to return to a 40 hour week at a 15 per cent basic pay rate increase.

This is the rate the companies had already offered to grant in advance of the conciliation meetings called by the government which had been going on for a week. The union had asked for a 30 per cent increase.

Conciliators Adjourn

On receiving Schwelmbach's proposal that both sides accept decision of an arbitrator, the conciliation meeting, which had been in session here since Saturday after similar meetings in Chicago, adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

"At that time," Secretary Schwelmbach said in his proposal statement, "all the operators and the union will accept this proposal. Within 24 hours thereafter I will make the appointment of an arbitrator."

Schwelmbach said hearings would proceed before the arbitrator speedily and he would decide the case as soon as possible "but not later than Dec. 1, 1945, unless by mutual consent the date is extended."

In the meantime, Daniel T. Pierce, vice president of the Sinclair Refining company, said "We're going along with the secretary—how could we do otherwise when the country faces such a crisis."

Union Studies Plan

O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers' union, said "We have been asked to give our decision to the secretary tomorrow at 4 o'clock, adding that 'we are going to study the proposal in the meantime.'"

Schwelmbach, in his proposal statement, said a solution to the oil industry dispute must be attained because "the supplying of gasoline and oil is essential; and if it is not, serious results will result in a shutting down of vital basic industries; reconversion and employment would be impossible."

"If this strike continued on into the winter, the people will be hungry and cold."

A tabulation listed 12 states affected by refinery strikes—Illinois, Texas, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, California, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, Kansas, New York, Pennsylvania, and Michigan. Knight said 14 states were affected, but did not list them.

Threatened shutdowns on the west coast involved three refineries of the Union Oil company of California, employing 8,000 persons, and a group of Shell refineries employing 3,000.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Lower Colorado River authority tonight rejected an offer to mediate a power strike of 140 workers at four hydro-electric units of the authority.

Workers walked out early today, asserting the authority had refused to recognize their right to organize and bargain collectively. The walk-out threatened to bring a water famine and other public service breakdowns in Texas areas populated by more than 100,000 persons.

Max Starcke, general manager of the power project, said in a statement that the strikers "have deliberately jeopardized the lives and health of thousands of persons."

"The acts committed by them amount to a revolt against the state and a crime against society," Starcke said in announcing the state-created power agency's rejection of the offer by Mayor Tom Miller of Austin to mediate the strike.

Officials of the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local 520, whose members struck, had indicated they were willing to accept Mayor Miller's offer to in-

The tieup cut off electrical energy vital for pumping municipal water supplies, for refrigeration, and for operation of hospital facilities in 24 towns and three army camps. Power subsequently was restored to one of the towns, San Marcos, to the San Marcos army air field and Camp Swift, by cutting in on power from other sources.

The Bergstrom army air field hospital put its emergency power plant into service.

Other towns affected include Kerrville, Belville, Fredericksburg, and Bastrop.

SEAMEN ANGERED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (Special)—The nation's troubled labor picture involved the CIO Textile Workers' union today and the AFL Masters, Mates, and Pilots of America.

An official of the Textile Workers' union reported that the number of cotton mill workers on strike may increase soon from 2,500 to from 30,000 to 40,000, and appealed to southern senators and representatives to form a commission to "deal with the strike crisis in the textile industry."

The masters, mates, and pilots' union, angered at a war labor board decision giving them an increase of $45 a month to replace the wartime "voyage bonus" ending today, petitioned the national labor relations board for a strike vote to cover merchant ship officers of every American ship and port "with which we have a contract."

RAILROAD SHUT DOWN

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 1 (P)—Operations of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad were shut down today within minutes after the road was returned to private operations after three and a half years under government control.

Some 500 employees, members of 13 unions involved in the work stoppage, established picket lines around the Union station and the road's freight yards.

Before going on strike the workers opened the road's bridge over the Illinois river to barge traffic, but train traffic over the structure was shut down.

Principal issue in the dispute was the Railroad Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers' union's demand that George P. McNear Jr., T. P. & W. president, continue operations under the same conditions as under federal management. Union spokesmen said pay was not at issue.

COMPANY MINES CLOSED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 1 (P)—With 142 pits and 54,000 men already idle in four states, the coal strike picked up momentum today as owning pickets closed steel company owned mines and United Mine workers district officials predicted the mine closings would continue.

William Blizard, a UMW vice president in West Virginia, said the entire coal industry in his state, employing 108,000, might be shut down "within the next few days."

John P. Busarello, UMW district president, said at Pittsburgh he expected all the mines in his district would be closed by tomorrow night.

More than 11,000 miners joined the strike over the weekend. The number of pits closed and miners idle today was: Pennsylvania, 86 and 38,446; West Virginia, 43 and 12,000; Kentucky, 10 and 4,500; Ohio, 3 and 1,600.

Hardest hit by the new shutdown was the United States steel corporation, with six of its biggest mines idle. All Pittsburgh area mines of the Republic Steel corporation and Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation were shut.

The walkouts began Sept. 21 over the demand of the United Electrical, Technical, and Supervisory Employees, a UMW affiliate, for union recognition.

WAIT PHONE ELECTION

New York, Oct. 1 (P)—Joseph Beirne, president of the independent Telephone Workers, said today the possibility of work stoppages by telephone employees "is very much in the picture" as a result of an NLRB trial examiner's report recommending dissolution of the Western Electric Employees' association, a federation affiliate, but added no action would be taken "before Wednesday."

Beirne said possibility of the stoppages depended on the outcome of a collective bargaining election tomorrow in Baltimore, in which the Western Electric group and the CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers are competitors.

Charles W. Whittemore, national labor relations board trial examiner, has recommended dissolution of the Western Electric union on the ground it is company dominated.

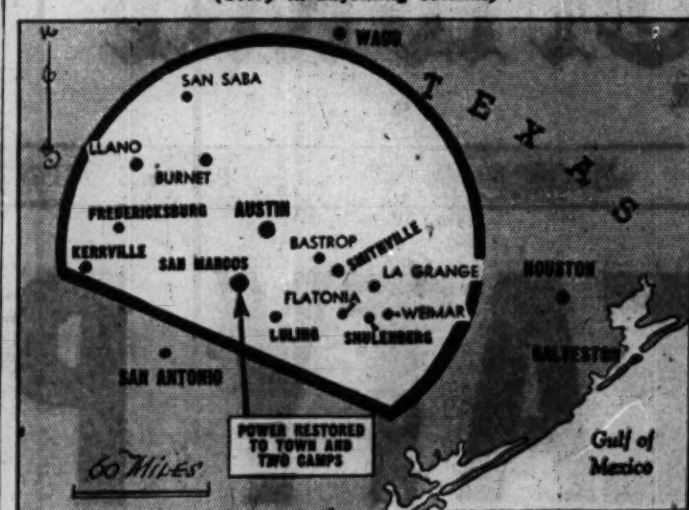

Branches of 1101 and 7002 of the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, another federation affiliate, announced a mass meeting would be held Thursday night, when members would vote on participation in a four hour national work stoppage if such action should be requested by the NFW.

Two Strikes and Union 'Holiday' Make 11,780 Idle

Two unexplained strikes made 8,780 workers idle in Chicago yesterday. A union "holiday" today will add 3,000 more to the list.

Two other strikes were threatened, one at Montgomery Ward & Co., which the government is scheduled to turn back to the company today, and one at the Union Stock Yards.

Eight thousand members of local 11 of the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers (CIO) were idle in an unexplained strike at the General Motors Electro-Motive diesel division at McCook, now entering its third day.

Three thousand members of local 11 of the International Typographical union (AFL) will absent themselves from their jobs on "holiday" today to take a strike vote.

780 Steel Workers Idle
Seven hundred eighty members of local 65, United Steel Workers union (CIO) were forced into idleness at the south works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, 3426 E. 99th st., by a series of walkouts which began Friday night.

The strike at the General Motors Electro-Motive plant has been disavowed by international officers of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) with which the local union is affiliated, and local union officers have given no reason for the walkout.

Joseph Mattson, regional UAW-CIO director, said he had sent two men from his office to try to "straighten out" the situation.

The only comment from a spokesman for the local was: "The men are still on strike, aren't they?" In the first two days, the strikers lost $145,920 in pay.

Printers Vote in 400 Plants
The strike vote of the printers, employed in more than 400 commercial plants in the Chicago area, was announced by Thomas Canty, president of local 16.

Canty said the vote was authorized.

WANTS BRITAIN, CHINA TO ASSIST IN OCCUPATION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (P)—Rep. Ludlow (D., Ind.) wants President Truman to ask Great Britain and China to contribute men to the army of occupation in the Asiatic theater.

"These countries whom we have helped so much should be reminded of their post-war responsibilities," he said today in a statement. "With a big job of policing the occupied countries still to be done, they have no right to sit back complacently and say, 'Let Uncle Sam do it.'"

Ludlow expressed belief the United States could recruit enough volunteers for the occupation forces to meet all army requirements. These, he said, are 400,000 for the European area and 200,000 for the Far East.

British Dockmen's Strike Spreads to Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, England, Oct. 1 (P)—The week-old strike of 2,000 dock laborers at Birkenhead spread along the Liverpool waterfront today. Increased pay demands by a small group at Birkenhead workers started the walkout.

DETROIT IRKED, BUT CIO KEEPS RATION ON GAS

BY THOMAS MORROW

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 1—Detroit CIO leaders tonight smarted under a reminder from Labor Secretary Schweikert that the "public" should have some gasoline.

E. J. Cunningham, United States labor conciliation service director, said Washington officials had told him to arrange immediately for a meeting between striking oil workers and officials of oil companies in this area.

Schweikert asked that the meeting be called to effect agreements to provide gasoline for all.

Jeffries Declines to Interfere
This move came as Detroit's civil blood pressure rose thru a fog filled rainy day in which its residents survived with gasoline rationed out by the policy committee of the striking oil workers' union. The strike was called to force a 30 per cent pay increase for gasoline station workers.

During the day CIO leaders, in a meeting with Mayor Edward Jeffries, attempted to dump the problem of emergency rationing into his lap, but the mayor demurred. He told the CIO leaders he was not in the gasoline rationing business.

Schweikert Appeals
The meeting of CIO leaders and Mayor Jeffries came after August Scholle, national CIO director in Michigan, had received a telegram sent collect at a cost of $5.50—from Secretary Schweikert. It said a department of labor investigation convinced Schweikert that the CIO rationing program was resulting in confusion and resentment—that soon will endanger the health and safety of the people of Detroit.

"Therefore, I vigorously urge that you arrange immediate meeting of representatives of the union and industry to be taken at once to withdraw from that program," the wire continued.

"If the supply of gasoline in the Detroit area is such as to necessitate rationing, it should be done by the proper authorities and not by the union."

Deny an Emergency
The oil workers countered with a telegram charging that the finding "reported to you by a representative of the department of labor is not based on facts." The wire held there is no emergency, admitted that there were complaints from indignant citizens, but averred that no shortage will result from the rationing.

Meanwhile Gov. Kelly let it be known he was adopting a hands off policy to avoid upsetting federal conciliation attempts. He said the problem is one of distribution, not supply.

On the surface, Detroit was accepting the control of gasoline by the CIO in its strike. CIO leaders, usually vocal on Detroit problems, were silent, but on the street there were mutters of discontent.

Mixed up in the oil strike and other Detroit labor difficulties is a continuing mayoral campaign. Mayor Jeffries will be one of the candidates and another will be Richard Frankenstein, CIO leader.

ASKS COURT TO ACT
Toledo, O., Oct. 1 (Special)—A gasoline rationing system in use here for a week to distribute emergency supplies during the gasoline strike was challenged today by a petition in Common Pleas court.

Since Sept. 22 only "essential" users have been permitted to purchase gasoline under a rationing program controlled by a committee of three city officials, three oil refinery executives, and three representatives of the striking CIO Oil Workers' union.

The legal attack was launched by Atty. Stephen Markowski who sued as a taxpayer for an injunction to stop the committee from functioning. He asserted the committee had usurped the powers of the city council and is exercising authority to which it is not entitled.

Judge John M. McCabe heard arguments and announced he would give a decision Thursday after he had heard from the union group, which was not represented at today's hearing.

Lauchie, Won't Intervene
Markowski earlier had asked Gov. Frank J. Lausche to halt the "illegal" program but the chief executive replied that he didn't believe his intervention would be justified because the present rationing appeared satisfactory.

Approximately 5,000 permit cards have been issued to essential users approved by the committee on which the city officials members are City Manager George N. Schoonmaker, Mayor Lloyd E. Roulet, and Vice Mayor Michael V. Disalle.

Approval to purchase emergency supplies has been given to persons in categories such as the following: Doctors, nurses, hospitals, ambulances, school buses, utilities, coal, ice, meat, milk, and other food suppliers, newspapers, and government authorities.

THREATEN LONG TIEUP

Portland, Ore., Oct. 1 (P)—Officials of the AFL lumber strike policy committee announced today they were prepared to carry the five state strike until 1946 or longer and cripple the entire building industry if necessary to obtain wage demands.

Frank Chapman, general representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, said his union was backing the lumber workers "financially and morally."

FRIGIDAIRE PLANTS HIT
Dayton, O., Oct. 1 (P)—Employees of the General Motors corporation five frigidaire plants here went on strike today in protest against what a spokesman termed the "unjustified indefinite suspension of four workers." Approximately 13,000 were made idle.

Ralph E. Moses, president of local 801, CIO United Electrical Workers, said the company suspended three of the men for allegedly participating in a work stoppage and "laid off" the fourth because of his union activities.

'CAUGHT IN MIDDLE'

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1 (P)—The strike threatened Union Electric Company of Missouri said today it is caught in the middle of a jurisdictional fight between the CIO and the AFL.

Vincent Brennan, personnel director of the company which supplies power to eastern Missouri and the St. Louis area, said that if demands of the CIO Tri-State Utility Work-

AFL MUSICIANS HALT NBC RADIO SHOW FROM CITY

The American Federation of Musicians (AFL) last night refused to permit its members to participate in the Carnation Contended Hour radio program, which originates in Chicago, because two stations of the National Broadcasting company network are involved in union disputes with musicians.

The two stations are WSMB in New Orleans, La., and WAPQ in Chattanooga, Tenn. On Sunday night, federation officials prevented Artie Shaw's orchestra from playing on the Fitch Bandwagon program over the same network. NBC officials asserted the union action did not involve a dispute with the network or the program sponsors.

A dramatic program without music was substituted for Carnation's Contended Hour.

BAKERY BLOCKADE ON

Newark, N. J., Oct. 1 (Special)—Striking bakery truck drivers threw a blockade around New Jersey today to keep its 4 million residents virtually breadless for the third successive day.

AFL strikers covered every main highway and bridge approach into the state.

GLOBESTER HOPS FOR CHINA OVER 'LITTLE HUMPH'

New Plane Takes Off from Calcutta

CALCUTTA, India, Oct. 1 (AP)—A new Douglas Skymaster C-54 on the air transport command's Globester flight winged out of Calcutta today bound over "The Little Hump" for Luliang, China, 1,041 miles away.

The new craft arrived here at 8:38 a. m. Chicago time, after a 1,485 mile hop from Karachi, India. The new plane, the second of a relay of four, took off for Luliang at 10:10 a. m. Chicago time. It was due there at 5:15 p. m. Chicago time, on the 23,137 mile round-the-world flight. It hopes to make the whole trip in 151 hours.

Here was the picture at Calcutta: Miles down, 10,368; miles yet to go, 12,769; elapsed time, including stops to and including Calcutta, 65 hours. The Globester's course will be south of the real "Hump" which required altitudes of 20,000 feet and upward. The Globester's altitude on the "Little Hump" will be not more than 13,000.

Heavy Clouds Close In

Heavy clouds closed in on the last 200 miles out of Calcutta, and the riders bumped and swayed.

Even with the sightseeing—Flight Comdr. Major Thomas L. McKissack of Denver, Colo., circled low around the white and gleaming Taj Mahal at Agra—the hop that had the passengers frequently clinging to the windows popped was made in seven hours and nine minutes.

The first Globester arrived in Karachi from Abadan, Iran, and the new plane took off for Calcutta at 1:27 a. m. Chicago time. New planes will be boarded also at Manila and San Francisco.

Thanks to a shorter stop than planned at Karachi and a favorable wind, the plane arrived at Calcutta's Barrackpore airport (Barrack Town) about on the air transport command's schedule. The flight, which left Washington, D. C., last Friday and is due back by Thursday, had borne into Karachi about an hour behind schedule.

Eight New Passengers

Eight new passengers boarded the Globester at Karachi, as other riders disembarked to intermediate stations. They included Lt. James R. Cushman, Kalamazoo, Mich., en route to an assignment at Barrackpore field. Here is the crew that flew the Globester from Karachi to Calcutta:

Flight commander—Maj. Thomas L. McKissack, Denver.

Pilot—Capt. Robert A. Brogan, Antioch, Ill.

Flight engineer—Tech. Sgt. Gene Montecchie, Highland, Ill.

Radio operator—Pvt. 1st Class Norman W. Thurrow, Milwaukee, Wis.

Flight traffic clerk—Staff Sgt. Thiri Eckstein, Salem, O.

NEAR NORTH SIDE GROUP FAVORS 1-WAY STREETS

General approval of a proposed system of one-way streets in the area bounded by Division st., North av., La Salle st., and Lake Shore dr. was voiced last night at a meeting of near north side residents in the Ambassador East hotel.

Some fear was expressed that if State st. is made into a one-lane thoroughfare for north bound traffic it might invite highway speeds. Ald. Waller (43d), Ald. Quirk (48th) chairman of the sub-committee on one-way streets, and engineers gave assurances this would not happen. Representatives of one large Lake Shore dr. building tentatively expressed opposition to the general plan.

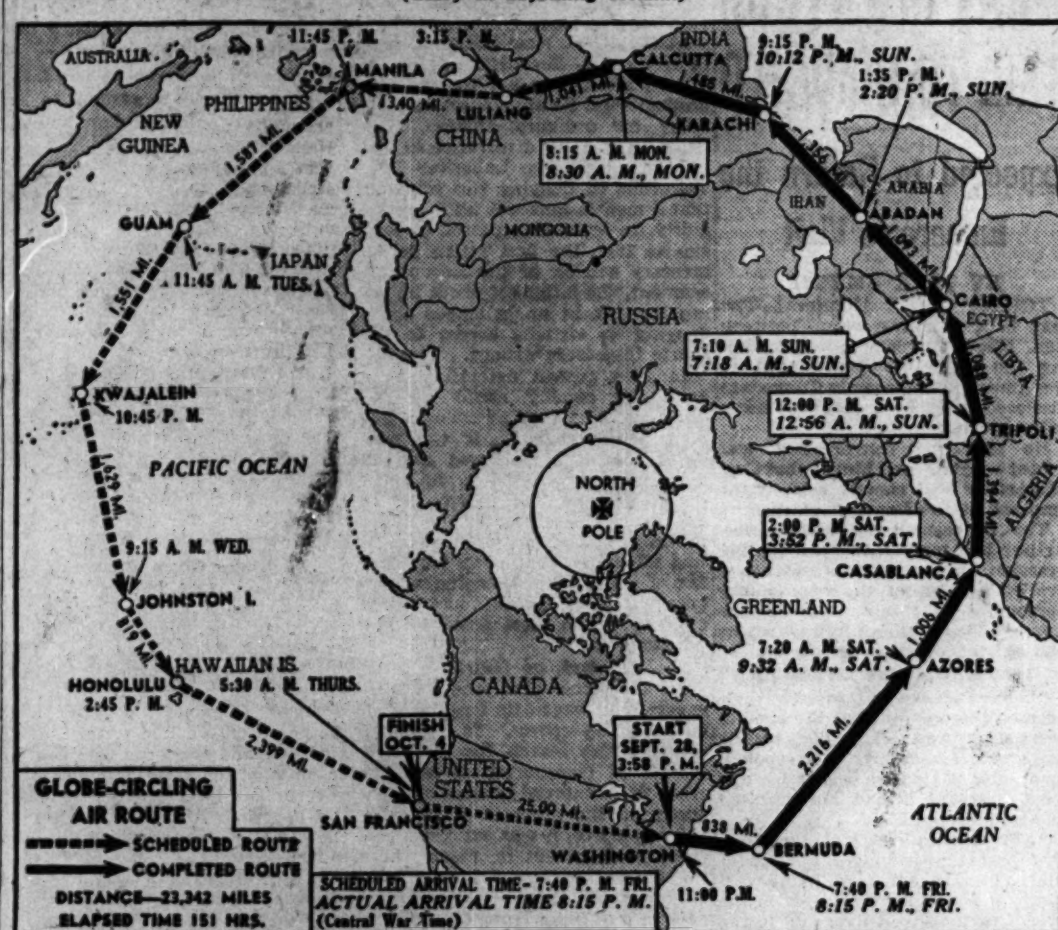

Speakers included Maj. Robert H. Reid, chairman of the residential committee of the North Central association. Joseph T. Ryerson, who approved the plan, and Lawrence H. Whiting were among those present.

ABOLISH FLEET COMMANDER JOB IN NAVY SHAKEUP

Shift Is Ordered by Truman

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman has ordered a broad reorganization of the navy. The reshuffle includes abolition of the position of commander in chief of the United States fleet, whose major functions are transferred to the chief of naval operations.

Navy Secretary Forrestal has signed a departmental order, however, continuing Fleet Adm. King in his present position of commander of the fleet during a period of transition until the new organization is put into effect. King also continues to hold his formal commission as chief of naval operations.

Improvements Sought

The order was signed two days ago and was made public today. A White House statement said its purpose is to enable the navy to incorporate in its organization some of the improvements indicated by war time experience.

"These changes are to be made by executive order," the statement said, "so that they may be tested for a period of time before the President recommends to Congress any statutory changes in the organization of the navy."

The order specifically recognizes that navy business falls into three grand divisions—military matters, general and administrative affairs, and business and related industrial matters.

The order requires that the navy organization structure "shall reflect this fundamental division of functions and directs the secretary of the navy to assign duties among the various agencies of the navy accordingly."

The White House said Forrestal has set up an informal board headed by Undersecretary Bard to recommend a specific plan of organization based on the executive order.

Adviser to President

Principal powers of the fleet commander in chief conferred upon the chief of naval operations are the duties of "the principal naval adviser to the President" and "command of the operating forces comprising the several fleets, seagoing forces, sea frontier forces, district

Truman Sees Burton Take Seat on High Court Bench

BY WALTER TROHAN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1—In an unprecedented Presidential visit to the United States Supreme court, President Truman today saw his first nominee to the nation's highest bench, Harold H. Burton, former Republican senator from Ohio, sworn in as an associate justice.

No other President has appeared before the court while in office during that body's 155 years in history. William Howard Taft was Chief Justice after his one term in the White House. Other chief executives have appeared in the court chamber before their tenure of office, but none did so while in office because of the ethics involved in appearing before men they had appointed, according to veteran court attaches.

and other forces, and the related shore establishments."

The functions transferred were those given to the fleet commander in chief by two previous executive orders dated Dec. 18, 1941, and March 12, 1942. These two orders are revoked.

Under the change ordered today the chief of naval operations will continue to be responsible for the readiness and the logistics support of the operating forces of the navy and his power to coordinate the navy's bureaus and offices to this end continues unchanged.

U. S. TO CONSIDER ALASKA AIR LINE TERMINUS HERE

Chicago will receive "every consideration" as the terminus of a proposed air line to Alaska and possibly Moscow, Corporation Counsel Hodes said he was assured by the civil aeronautics board in Washington, D. C. He returned from the capital yesterday. Seattle, Wash., also is seeking the terminus. Hodes also was advised that Chicago would be the terminus of a Latin-American line.

While in Washington, Hodes advised, he discovered that the CAB has an "amazing number" of applications from small air lines seeking the right to operate into Chicago.

ENGINEER VOIDS RAIL PERIL AT DOUGLAS SITE

BY ROBERT HOWARD

A plan for constructing a 12 runway air passenger terminal at Douglas airport, near Park Ridge, without moving adjacent railroad tracks was disclosed yesterday by Ralph H. Burke, park district engineer and a member of Mayor Kelly's airport site selection board.

Burke submitted to the board a tentative sketch for a 3,945 acre airport on an irregularly shaped tract between Higgins and Irving Park roads. It would have room for 12 tangential runways, each at least 6,000 feet long, and could handle the transoceanic and transcontinental planes that will land at and fly from Chicago in the future.

Plan Called Excellent

The proposal will be analyzed by an air lines technical committee at a meeting Monday. E. P. Lott of United Air Lines, head of the committee, called the Burke plan "an excellent solution of the Douglas problem." Only incidental mention was made of the alternate possible site in the Clearing district.

The mayor earlier had asserted the city shouldn't abandon the mile square Chicago airport at 63d st. and Cicero av. He indicated that the Clearing site was impractical because it is too close to Chicago airport. That leaves the Douglas site without opposition, he added.

Plan Suggested by Hewitt

Burke's plan for the Douglas enlargement had been prepared at the suggestion of Public Works Commissioner Hewitt because of the Soe line tracks east of the airport and the Chicago and North Western branch line to the west. If the tracks are moved it would require from a year and a half to four years, depending upon whether court action is necessary, Ald. Lancaster (37th) reported as head of a special legal subcommittee.

An oval area, 6,000 feet at its greatest dimension and 2,400 feet at its shortest, would be provided in the center of the airport, in which administration buildings would be erected and automobile parking space provided. It would be located in the vicinity of Lawrence and Bryn Mawr avs. Around it a 1,000 foot belt of concrete would give space for loading platforms and plane taxiways.

Safety Margins Provided

The 12 runways, at 30 degree angles and tangential to the administrative area, would point toward the railroad tracks, but in each case end 1,000 feet from them, providing safety margins in landings. To the north and south the runways could be extended to 8,000 feet by relocating Higgins and Irving Park roads. One runway could be made three miles long for planes taking off with extraordinarily heavy loads on a still day.

Automobiles from the northwest super-highway reach the administrative center thru a tunnel. The Burke plan is designed to handle 360 airplane operations an hour at peak periods.

Ald. Cowhey (41st), on behalf of northwest side business men, urged adoption of the Douglas site.

'35 MONTH BABY' PLEA FAILS; VET GIVEN DIVORCE

Superior Judge Edwin A. Robson yesterday ruled in the absence of medical testimony that a 35 months' gestation period was impossible as he granted a divorce to Anthony Frisco, 26, of 7310 W. 61st st., Argo, an army veteran.

Frisco charged his wife, Rose Mary, 22, of 7616 63d st., Summit, with adultery. Samuel Aronfeld, his attorney, told the court that although Frisco sailed for the South Pacific in January, 1942, his wife insisted he was the father of a child born on Dec. 30, 1944.

Frisco returned last Aug. 28 when the child was 8 months old.

YANKS HUNTING TREASURE LOOT IN TOKYO BANKS

Find Gold for Siam and Indo-China

TOKYO, Oct. 1 (AP)—American investigators set out today on the trail of the treasure which Japan looted from conquered lands.

In Tokyo's "Wall Street" the bank of Japan was closed. Army authorities said it could reopen tomorrow if its officials quit stalling and helped track down the stolen riches of Asia. The little people, who crowded about the bank, fearful that their savings would be taken away, dispersed after the Americans assured them their money was safe.

In the vaults of this bank, comparable to the United States federal reserve system, stood marked gold and gold stocks earmarked for Siam and Indo-China.

Guard 21 Institutions

American troops stood guard over 21 financial institutions, which were closed at Gen. MacArthur's order Sunday. These 21 were the big combines which had exploited in a business way Japan's military conquests. All will be liquidated.

The Yokohama Specie bank and the Hypothec bank, which also were closed in MacArthur's swift economic coup Sunday, reopened today. No trace was found in their records of the wealth removed by the Japanese from the Philippines and the East Indies.

Col. R. F. Kramer, MacArthur's economic and scientific chief, opened the hunt for looted wealth in a conversation with Viscount Keizo Shibusawa, governor of the bank of Japan, and other key officials. They complained that they had not been given enough time to produce the assets and records and round up the proper officials.

"The Philippine Gold"

The Japanese insisted they had no control over financial transactions of militarists in the field, who were allowed to sell assets and place the funds in a special military disbursement account or keep the assets for themselves.

Asked about the reported transfer to Japan of gold and currency from the Philippines, Shibusawa replied, "I know nothing about it," insisting that the bank of Japan held no foreign currency.

At Kramer's order, the banker submitted the valuation of the bank's gold reserve. The amount was not disclosed. The finance ministry reported previously that the total was only $125,000,000.

The banker and a representative of the finance ministry said they didn't know where the imperial household's funds were located.

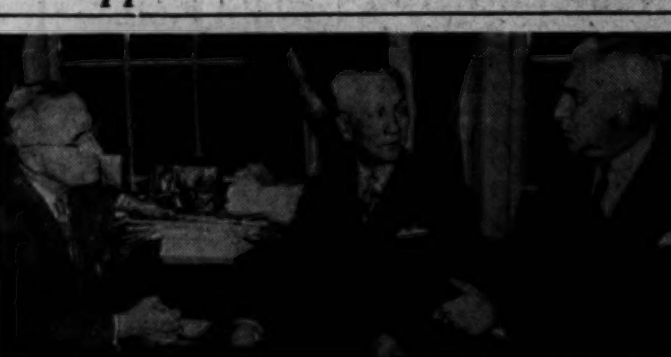

Will Take Months

Kramer said American experts would begin studying the institutions' records immediately, but that months would be required to ferret out details of the banking combine which financed two major wars and decades of ruthless exploitation.

The Japanese government will be the principal loser, Kramer said, because it so heavily backed the institutions. Actually, most of the institutions already had lost their major assets, based upon resources of conquered areas stripped from Japan.

The newspaper Asahi reported that Kenji Kodama, former head of the Central China Development company, one of the firms ordered closed, had been appointed new president of the central liaison office, the Japanese agency that receives and passes on to the proper department the directives of the allied command.

Talk of Independence

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman discussed with Sergio Osmena, president of the Philippines, and others today how to make the islands "ready for independence," the White House announced.

It was said Mr. Truman will have something to say about this subject at his news conference Wednesday. Sitting in on the conference today were Paul V. McNutt, American high commissioner to the islands; Abe Fortas, under secretary of the interior, and Brig. Gen. Carlos Romulo, Philippine resident commissioner to this country.

CHINESE FACE ARMED JAPS IN STRANGE TRUCE

HONGKONG, Sept. 30 (Delayed)—Fully armed Japanese and Chinese soldiers are observing a military truce on the mainland of southeast China in what seems to be a strange gentlemen's agreement.

Within the British "new territories," stretching 25 miles from Kowloon, there is no sign of Japanese outside prisoner camps or work gangs. But a dozen peacekeepers are observing a military truce on the mainland of southeast China in what seems to be a strange gentlemen's agreement.

Fifty yards farther along 25 grinning Japanese under an affable little lieutenant are billeted at a rail station. A similar number of Chinese are on the opposite side. Small columns of Chinese troops march along the Japanese platform and are saluted by Japanese sentries. Chinese officers return the salute. There apparently has been no effort by the Chinese to disarm the Japanese, who greatly outnumber them in this region. The main Chinese forces have not arrived.

Norman, Okla., Oct. 1 (AP)—Two sailors were killed and three injured at the Norman naval air station in an explosion yesterday caused by a gas leak in the ordnance building, Capt. R. C. Young, commanding officer, disclosed today.

TELLS OF ODOR OF GAS Sargison told his parents in a letter received last Saturday that gas leaks around the station were causing "a terrible smell." Sargison attended Morton High school, Cicero, and entered the navy in 1943.

FIND JAPS FORCED SHINTO SHRINES UPON CHRISTIANS

University Compelled to Install One

TOKYO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Shintolism, integrally connected with Japanese worship of the emperor, today came under the stern scrutiny of the army of occupation, seeking to prevent any misuse by the government.

Col. Ken R. Dyke, New York, director of Gen. MacArthur's civil information and education section, will conduct the investigation.

He said talks with Japanese show clearly that shintolism was used heavily during the war when emphasis was put on the government's desire that every family have a Shinto shrine in its home.

Even Christian schools were forced to install shrines, with resultant bitter protests, Dyke asserted, adding that one of the biggest controversies involved Doshisha university at Kyoto, which finally was forced to submit.

Taught in Schools

While the religious or military intent of the shrine was lost completely, the government felt it was a victory in the eyes of the people by making the university concede.

Shintolism has been taught in the schools and stressed heavily to build, in the minds of the children, the glories of the divine country.

"We aren't trying to interfere with any one's religion, but we are going to be certain it isn't used as a tool for militarists," said Dyke. "The government has poured a lot of money into Shinto during the war and largely has been the support of its priests."

Probe Educational System. Dyke also said the educational setup of Japan is being investigated with the cooperation of the Japanese education minister.

"We want to know just how the history of Japan is being taught," Dyke asserted. "It's all tied up in the sun goddess and the deity of the god emperor. I don't say we are going to eliminate all this, but we are going to get liberal minded Japanese to help us trace just what it builds up in the minds of the nation. Let's say we desire to get the history on a more factual basis."

OFFICIAL TELLS WHAT M'ARTHUR SAID TO HIROHITO

Expected to Return the Emperor's Visit

BY JACK SMYTH

TOKYO, Oct. 1 (Reuters)—The text of the conversation between Gen. MacArthur and Hirohito during the emperor's recent visit to the American embassy in Tokyo was disclosed today by a Japanese home office spokesman.

He said the conversation was "most cordial," and hinted that Gen. MacArthur will shortly call on the emperor at the Imperial palace. The spokesman said Gen. MacArthur had made a tremendous impression on the emperor, who had availed himself of the opportunity personally to thank the supreme commander for the way in which he had carried out the occupation.

Praises Hirohito's Leadership

Gen. MacArthur in turn expressed the opinion that the smooth occupation was really due to the emperor's leadership, the spokesman said. "He added that he was most thankful it had not resulted in any bloodshed."

"The commander and the emperor were in complete agreement that had invasion been found necessary it would have resulted in the complete destruction of Japan."

"The emperor was particularly impressed that Gen. MacArthur did not make any reference to who was responsible for the war. Although the emperor expressed, as his personal opinion, that final judgment would have to be left to future historians, Gen. MacArthur made no comment."

Satisfied with Progress. Hirohito and MacArthur then discussed various occupational measures to be taken by the allies, and the emperor declared himself well satisfied with the progress already made.

Gen. MacArthur then told the emperor he would welcome any suggestions that his majesty might wish to make concerning the reconstruction of Japan, and promised if they were in accordance with allied policy that he would see they were carried out as soon as possible.

The spokesman emphasized that nobody in Japan has the slightest ill feeling toward MacArthur and that all are confidently looking forward to his returning to the courtesy of the emperor by calling on him. If he does so he will be the first foreign military commander to be entertained there since the emperor received Marshal Petain in 1925.

New Zealand's Labor Rule Flouts Legal Rights of 'Outs'

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Sept. 11 (By mail)—Socialism in this dominion means one law for the government and its supporters and another for ordinary citizens, New Zealanders have discovered in the last 10 years. The Laborites have succeeded in denying the principle that a man is innocent until proved guilty. In legislation passed, as long ago as 1937, the first active parliamentary session of the Labor government, the latter set about imposing its will in unchallenged form, denying to citizens access to the courts to redress wrongs.

In laws passed ostensibly as a basis for coming social security plans but later used to set up a war man power register, it was provided that if a man was charged with failing to register, he must prove that he had registered. In another act passed after the Labor government had increased wages, it was stipulated that if an employer was accused of discharging a man because his wages had been stepped up, he must prove he had not done so.

Attack on Courts

At the same time the Socialist government began its long term attack on the courts. In measures controlling the search for oil fields, control of transportation, and the grant of dictatorial powers over industry to the minister of industry and commerce, it was expressly provided that, except in cases where the powers conferred in the law did not apply, there could be no appeal to any court from decisions of the ministers involved.

With the war the situation worsened, the Socialists often disregarded law in favoring their supporters, and used intimidation to overcome their opponents. A Wellington stockbroker, Hubert Nathan, fought the rule of the union bosses during the city council election campaign in 1941. His office was invaded by three top Laborite chieftains, including Peter Butler, national secretary of the General Laborers' union. They locked him in and bullied him for hours.

Police action was foiled by the administration, which declared no offense had been committed. Wellington attorneys did not agree with this, and in the election the Laborites lost every member they had had in the council, and have never been able to elect one since.

Prevent Evictions

Prime Minister Peter Fraser forcibly intervened to stop execution of a court order for eviction for non-payment of rent in a "work" class district in 1941. He went to the scene personally to overawe the court's representatives. In a similar case in 1944, Peter Butler, with a force of Labor members, prevented eviction of a party member who owned a race horse but did not pay his rent. Finance Minister Walter Nash called off the police, and later

Penalty For Too Much Time Out

In football, lost yardage.

In business—especially in days like these—the penalty for too much time out may be lost opportunities, lost customers, lost markets.

Retailers have told Henri, Hurst & McDonald research investigators that what they need and want most from the makers of consumer goods is a specific selling program for the days ahead.

For a while it may be enough just to have merchandise. But not for long.

Don't take too much "time out" in preparing for competitive selling. The penalty may be too great.

NEW INDO-CHINA PARTY FLIES ITS OWN RED FLAG

Blue and White Stripes
Fight Communism

HANOI, Indo-China, Sept. 29 (Delayed)—(P)—A red flag with blue and white horizontal stripes in one corner was hoisted over a French mansion in Hanoi's suburbs today by natives who said it was the emblem of a new political party, representing "a union of revolutionary parties" of the Viet Nam independence movement.

The leaders said they were opposed to the Viet Minh, or "United Revolutionary Front," provisional native government headed by Ho Chi Minh, on the grounds that Ho's supporters were communistic.

Ho, who is premier of the regime he has set up, said he was willing to accept the new group in his organization, but asserted that most of its supporters had come into the country from China two weeks ago at the same time as Chinese occupation forces, and that they were unable to explain how they got there or how they were financed.

Nation an Armed Camp
Ho also said the French had proposed that delegates from his Viet Minh visit Kunming, China, to meet the French governor-general of Indo-China, Adm. Dargenlieu, but that he had not accepted because the proposal was not in writing.

Hanoi remained outwardly calm under Chinese occupation forces, which stationed guards at vital places but permitted native supervision of government departments. However, Indo-China is an armed camp—from Saigon in the south to Hanoi in the north. Almost every man carries a knife, spear, or club.

Ask American Support
Dozens of Viet Minh committees pleaded for American support of their claims for independence. Demonstrations were held thruout the country this week in protest against the British attitude in Saigon, where the French reportedly control the city after armed clashes.

Inland from the central port of Tourane there have been several bitter clashes between French troops, who have parachuted into this area since mid-August, and Annamese guerrillas. The French have not always been successful.

Envoy Blames Japs
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (P)—French Ambassador Henri Bonnet said today he is confident that the Japanese had armed certain Annamite groups in Indo-China to ham-

The ambassador expressed confidence, however, that French administration of the colony would soon be restored.

PARK LIVINGSTON ANSWERS CRITIC OF U. OF I. HEAD

Park Livingston, president of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, yesterday described George D. Stoddard, president-elect of the university, as an outstanding Christian in reply to criticisms voiced by Bishop James A. Griffin of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield.

In an address Sunday marking the 75th anniversary of St. Mary's church in Joliet, Bishop Griffin assailed Dr. Stoddard's religious views, which he described as "feeble fumes" in comparison with Gen. MacArthur's religious utterances. In reply, Livingston stated:

"The whole board, faculty, alumni, and general advisory committee of the university are satisfied that Dr. Stoddard is an outstanding Christian. That was the one point with which we were much concerned."

WE'RE ENTITLED TO LIBERTY, JAVA PEOPLE DECLARE

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 1 (P)—British occupation forces moving into the Netherlands East Indies peacefully expanded their hold today on Batavia where independence seekers painted buildings with signs saying "we don't ask freedom—we are entitled to it."

With Indonesians protesting the return of their Dutch rulers, and with 35,000 Japanese troops still on the island, the situation is "potentially explosive" and "could lead to a horrible racial war," said Charles O. van der Plas, senior representative of the Netherlands government in Java.

Indonesian leaders said they would fight rather than return to colonial status.

Proclaimed Independence
"We proclaimed our independence on Aug. 17," said Dr. R. I. Soekarno, president of the "Republic of Indonesia." "We didn't like Japanese oppression and we don't want Dutch oppression either."

An official Dutch government broadcast described Soekarno as a "half-blooded opportunist" and a Japanese puppet. The broadcast protested that allied occupation forces were leaving him "to rule practically all the rich island of Java."

Van der Plas said he had invited Soekarno and leaders of all other Indonesian political factions to meet with him to iron out current problems. Conferences between the Dutch and Indonesians were ordered by Lt. Gen. Philip Christison, whose British forces are occupying key points on Java and Sumatra for the allies.

Reject Official's Action

LONDON, Oct. 1 (Reuters)—The Netherlands government in no way supports the action taken by C. H. van der Plas, Netherlands East Indies civil administration chief in Batavia, in inviting "Indonesian Republican" Leader Dr. R. I. Soekarno to a conference on future Javanese policy. It was stated here late tonight by Dr. J. J. A. Logeman, Netherlands minister for overseas territories.

"We will wire him immediately to stop all action on the matter and advise him not to make any such decisions in the future without authority from the Dutch government," Logeman said.

Van der Plas was not authorized to speak, Logeman said, unless thru Dr. Hubertus van Mook, Netherlands East Indies lieutenant governor. Van Mook was not due to arrive in Batavia from Australia until tomorrow. "The Dutch government will not negotiate with Soekarno under any circumstances," Logeman said.

RESTORE GLITTER OF CZARS INSIDE KREMLIN WALLS

Gilt Cupolas Gleam;
Roofs Repaired

MOSCOW, Oct. 1 (P)—Inside the walls of the Kremlin soviet artisans are well along on the program to restore the glory of its historical buildings, and the hundreds of murals and religious paintings they contain.

Already the golden cupolas of its cathedrals are beginning to gleam with the removal of the wartime coat of camouflage paint. Their roofs have been repaired and their walls whitened.

Foreign correspondents, on a rare visit inside the walls enclosing the famous group of buildings, watched the workers. They learned that the soviet union plans to refurbish the structures completely, and to restore them to their original condition wherever alterations were made by later czars and priests.

Nine Gold Covered Cupolas
One of the Kremlin's most famed sights is the nine gold covered cupolas of Blagoveschensk cathedral. Cleaned of their camouflage, they now glitter brightly.

The famed Moscow steeplejack, M. N. Matyushkin, who mounted the ruby stairs on the Kremlin's towers three years ago, has finished polishing the crosses on the 320 foot bell tower of Ivan the Great.

One of the longest tasks, to start after the exteriors of the buildings have been finished, will be the restoration of the hundreds of murals and other religious paintings which crowd the chapels of the various cathedrals. Soviet artists estimated this may take at least another year.

Czar's Apartments Intact
A section of the Kremlin which needs no restoration is the great palace with its 200-foot St. George room and the private apartments of the last czar and czarina.

Correspondents who strolled thru the imperial apartments with their ornate glitter of gold and mirrors found everything in perfect order. Someone took the cover off the czar's gilded grand piano, opened it up and fingered the keys. It seemed in tune.

Several doors away in a long corner room that was the last czar's study, a golden clock ticked away just as it did in the czar's day.

Report Argentina Censors News of Snub by Brazil

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 1 (Reuters)—It is reported here that Argentine censors today ordered Argentine newspapers and radio stations not to publish a report from Rio de Janeiro stating that President Vargas of Brazil would not meet Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, president of Argentina, next week at Paso de los Libres.

The occasion was to have been the opening of the international bridge over the Uruguay river.

REPORT ON TOUR OF BASES URGES U. S. KEEP ISLES

House Group Presents
Findings to Truman

BY WILLIAM STRAND
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—Returning from a world tour of American military installations, members of a house appropriations subcommittee today urged that the nation retain for defense in the Pacific all the island bases wrested from Japan, from the Carolines to Okinawa.

The legislators also declared that the world-wide network of airways developed by the United States during the war, which are using many of the hard won islands for operating bases, should be preserved, with private flying companies encouraged to operate them.

The subcommittee made its recommendations to President Truman in a report which its members delivered personally at the White House.

For Future Defense Needs
Six weeks ago the house naval affairs committee demanded that the nation be given outright possession of British and French strategic bases which those two countries were unable to defend. The naval affairs committee, at the same time, rejected an internationalist plan for trusteeships and called for absolute possession by the United States of Japanese mandated islands to fulfill future defense needs.

The congressmen who returned lately from a globe circling journey included in their report some outspoken advice on the handling of the atomic bomb secret. They said details of the manner in which this nation harnessed the fundamental energy of the universe to bring destruction of an unexampled enormity upon the Japanese homeland should not be given to other countries until the subject has been studied by a special scientific commission.

Immediate creation of such a commission to study all phases of atomic power was urged by the group. They said membership should include the scientists who were in charge of the 2 billion dollar project to split the atom, along with representatives of the joint chiefs of staff, the state department, and congress.

Resolution Approved
Soon after the group left the White House it was disclosed that a Presidential message on the atomic bomb, which has been in prospect for several weeks, will be sent to congress within the next few days.

Meanwhile, the house rules committee approved for floor consideration a resolution to set up a joint congressional committee to study control of the atomic bomb. Rep. Harris (D., Ark.), sponsor of the measure, said he will amend the resolution to make it conform to similar legislation recently approved by the senate which calls for a 12 man committee to consider the question.

The recommendations for retaining Jap islands and the advice on the atom bomb were incorporated in a statement embodying nine conclusions reached by the congressmen in a 39 day tour. Asked about the President's reactions, Rep. Snyder (D., Pa.), the chairman, said, "He didn't get mad."

World-Wide Tendency
Among other things, the group inveighed against the belief held by most other nations that the United States is a land of unlimited milk and honey.

"There is a world-wide tendency to regard the United States as a country of unlimited wealth," said their statement. "We should say frankly to every country asking aid that, here as there, wealth is produced only by work, and it supplies or credits are furnished beyond minimum food or clothing repayment must be assured."

PALOS HEIGHTS FIRST TO EXCEED ITS FUND QUOTA

Palos Heights is the first community in the Chicago area to over-subscribe its quota in the Community and War Fund drive, headquarters of the drive reported last night. Palos Heights' quota was $1,230. Last night the 70 volunteer workers turned in cash and pledges totaling $1,250.

Solicitation had been under way since Saturday, under the leadership of Stanley Morehouse, 11532 S. 71st st., Palos Park, a former second lieutenant in the coast artillery.

Park Ridge also over-subscribed its $17,500 quota by collecting $17,667.68 on the opening day. C. O. Michaelson, fund chairman in the suburb, said last night.

Mayor Kelly at a fund drive meeting in the council chambers appointed chairmen of governmental departments. They were Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., army; Vice Adm. Arthur S. Carpenter, navy; James B. McCahey, schools; Robert J. Dunham, parks; James Whelan, sanitary district; Sen. Richard J. Daley, Cook county offices; Gov. Green, state offices; Ernest Krueger, postoffice; Nigel Campbell, federal agencies, and William W. McKenna, city.

Two Packs—Two Pups

(Tribune Photo)
Tech. Sgt. C. J. Hurlbut with Boxer pups he purchased in Germany for two packages of cigarettes.

After Tech. Sgt. Charles J. Hurlbut, 28, 1028 Hinman av., Evanston, arrived home from Germany, an express company yesterday delivered two live Boxer dogs called Dozer and Dutch.

"An old woman traded 'em for two packages of cigarettes," Sgt. Hurlbut said of the 328th engineering battalion said.

Dozer and Dutch almost remained in France because the army refused to transport them on a troop ship. Sgt. Hurlbut said he managed to buy passage for his pets on the oil tanker, Northern Sun, with 122 pairs of coversalls donated by his company.

Sgt. Hurlbut said Dozer and Dutch will remain mascots of the company at Camp Bowie, Tex.

AIDE TO TRUMAN TELLS LEGION OF PEACE TIME NEED

Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to President Truman, spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion in Hotel Sherman yesterday. He told the Legionnaires that their services to the country are needed as much in peace time as when they were in uniform.

"The ground we gained in 1917 and 1918 was lost in the diplomatic field in later years," he said. "We must try to prevent that again."

He read a letter addressed to the post by President Truman in which the latter expressed his regrets that he could not come to the meeting.

Among the guests at the luncheon were Mayor Kelly, Sheriff Mulcahy, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker (retired), and state and county officials of the Legion.

10-TON ATOMIC BOMB FEASIBLE, SCIENTIST SAYS

BY E. R. NODERER
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
LONDON, Oct. 1.—The production of a 10 ton atomic bomb as destructive as 10,000,000 "ordinary" bombs already is scientifically practicable, and it could kill all 8,000,000 of London's inhabitants.

This was reported by Prof. M. L. Oliphant, British scientist who played a leading role in developing the first atomic bomb in the United States. He was addressing a secret meeting in London on Saturday of 150 of Europe's leading scientists, including the scientific advisers to the British war office, admiralty and air ministry. The meeting was called by the British Society for Visiting Scientists.

Secrecy Soon May End

Prof. Oliphant added:
"The atomic bomb is a simple device based on knowledge collected before the war. There are no secrets except how the special form of uranium, U-235, and the new substance plutonium are separated. This secret can be kept only for a short time."

He said that any nation not in a hurry could accumulate sufficient material to make one or two atomic bombs.

"There is no practical reason," he went on, "why atom bombs a thousand times as big as those now in use should not be made. We have just begun to use the heavy elements. We shall be able to use other, more common substances for atom bombs."

"We can already control atomic energy. The only problems facing us now are those of physics."

Asks Control Before Peace Use
Prof. Oliphant said that control of the atomic bomb must come before the nations turn to peaceful uses of atomic energy.

"We cannot utilize atomic energy without the fear of any country being able to turn out atomic bombs when it wants to," he explained.

Prof. P. M. S. Blackett, scientific adviser to the admiralty and head of the 17,000 members of the Association of Scientific Workers, said Britain must choose between making bombs or using atomic energy for peace and "only the United States has the resources to do both."

Charles Darwin, director of the National Physical Laboratories, said that in the event of a war between two atomic bomb producing countries, such as Britain and the United States, many big cities, including Chicago, would be destroyed.

WOMEN OR NO? V. F. W. QUESTION

A fiery debate is expected among delegates to the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars who appear almost equally divided on a proposal to admit service women as members. Staff Sgt. Junior J. Spurrier, Bluefield, W. Va., medal of honor holder, said: "Unless we had separate clubhouses we'd never be able to enjoy ourselves." Aviation Machinist's Mate 2d Class Charles Selby, Providence, R. I., said: "Men can get into enough arguments without the help of women." Chester Williams, Bristol, R. I., said: "Women would be O. K. in units of their own, and it would be much better if they were all good looking."

Tokyo post No. 1 of the V. F. W. was born last night in Tokyo as 300 men of the enlisted forces met at the International Press club and signed applications for membership. They then radioed applications to the V. F. W. convention here. The applications were accepted by the V. F. W. representative in Tokyo, Thomas Jay Kehoe.

Charles Newcomb of Green Bay, Wis., national director of the V. F. W.'s membership-at-large program, arrived for the convention with a string of short-snorter money continuing 46 bills from nearly as many countries. The string of bills was more than 18 feet long. Newcomb also brought along considerable worthless foreign currency which he said was submitted by service men for their dues under the program he directs.

Jake Alex Mandusch of 1505 W. 19th st., who won the congressional medal of honor in World War I for action in France, knew what to do on the battle field, but he admitted yesterday that he was at a loss as to his duties as aide de camp, medal of honor class, to the commander in chief of the V. F. W. A delegate to the convention from post No. 177, Mandusch learned that his aide job is mostly honorary.

Pvt. Paul E. Davis, 36, of Fairland, Okla., first American soldier to enter Tokyo after the Japs surrendered, wants to make sure he sees the World series and meets Charlie Grimm, Cubs manager. He's almost as eager to see the series as he is to collect the $1,000 which he will receive for his Tokyo entry from Ottawa county, Okla. The county's residents also will award a similar prize to Sgt. Clarence A. Miller, 38, first of the county's soldiers to reach Berlin.

quickly. He said this might make nations hesitate to go to war.

Defense Possibilities Discussed
Prof. George Thomson said there was not much chance for any defense against the atomic bomb. He added:

"Defense against ordinary bombers is based on the fact that if you shoot down a small proportion each time the bombing process becomes too costly to continue. That argument does not apply to the atomic bomb."

He advocated the control of raw materials as a guard against unexpected attack.

The scientists also were told that Russia would be among the countries that would soon have the atomic bomb's secrets and that a world race for uranium deposits would make the race for oil look like a pushcart derby.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY TO DISCUSS AID TO SERVICE MAN

Late arrivals last night at Hotel Sherman were expected to boost registrations for the victory conference of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies auxiliary to almost 2,000. Most of those in the city yesterday were occupied with committee meetings while department presidents and national officers attended the Presidents' luncheon in the hotel's Crystal room.

Mrs. Hazel Miller, national auxiliary president, disclosed the organization now has 225,000 members, an increase of 70,000 over the 1944 membership. She said most of the auxiliary's convention will be devoted to its program of service for and rehabilitation of service men.

Mrs. James Doolittle, wife of the air forces general, and Mrs. Tomas Cabili, wife of the secretary of national defense in the Philippines cabinet, will speak this afternoon when business sessions open in the Medinah temple.

A total of $2,000 will be awarded tomorrow by the auxiliary to four winners of the national high school essay contest. The title of this year's essay is, "What Can I Do for My Country?"

Asks Truman Act in Ban of D. A. R. on Hazel Scott

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Rep. Powell Jr., Negro Democrat from New York City, today asked President Truman to take "immediate action" on what he called the barring of his wife, Pianist Hazel Scott, from a proposed concert in Constitution hall. The hall is owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Powell said Miss Scott, a former night club entertainer, was barred, "because she is a Negro." No member of the D. A. R. could be reached for comment today. In 1938 Marian Anderson, Negro contralto, was barred from Constitution hall.

LANGE SAYS AIM IS TO TIGHTEN U. S., POLISH TIE

Will Tour Native Land to Learn Conditions

BY HENRY WALES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 29 (Delayed)—"Furthering Polish-American relations is more important than personal affairs," is how

Henry Wales

Oscar Lange, former professor of economics at the University of Chicago, justifies abandoning his United States citizenship and resuming his Polish nationality in order to become the first ambassador to Washington of the new Warsaw government.

"I discussed the matter fully with James Dunn and other officials of the state department before leaving Washington a fortnight ago," said Lange today. He was in a tiny room in the Hotel Polonia as his brunette secretary made arrangements for Lange's trip around Poland starting tomorrow. "By accepting the post with the Polish government my American naturalization automatically expires and I surrender my United States passport before leaving Warsaw," he continued.

Knew Premier Before

Lange explains that he was offered the choicest plum in the Polish diplomatic corps—the Washington ambassadorship—because he knew Premier Edward Osobka-Morawski before he left Poland and when he was on the faculty of Krakow university. He was also a Socialist party member with the present premier.

"In foreign affairs Poland must seek to strengthen her ties in the east and west with Russia and the United States because she finds herself geographically in the middle and must maintain an equilibrium between the two powerful allies," he said.

"I am motoring to Lodz, Krakow, Lwow and other cities in western Poland before proceeding to Washington in order to ascertain the exact situation here," he said. "I expect to start to America in three weeks. Then my wife and five year old son, now in Chicago, will join me at the embassy in Washington. It will be an odd situation as my wife and son are American and will remain citizens altho I shall become Polish again."

Tells of Trip to Russia

Lange went to America in 1937 and became naturalized. He recounted his last trip abroad in January, 1944. "I flew to Russia via Alaska, Kamchatka, Yakutsk and Moscow to near Zhitomir to see the Polish army fighting with the Red army. The Polish troops in that sector were preparing for the spring offensive which captured the Ukraine. I desired to talk with the soldiers of the new Polish army and learn their viewpoint on the new Poland and how they got along with the Russians."

An English Socialist member of parliament, John Mack, representing Liverpool, who is here to confer with Osobka-Morawski regarding the "liquidation" of the war time emigre Polish government in London, will accompany Lange on his Polish trip.

"When you see the destruction of Warsaw it makes you lose sympathy over the damages in Berlin and other German cities," Lange remarked in parting.

Lange was a guest at a luncheon given by United States Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane today.

IGOE CONSENTS TO WAIT WEEK ON TRACTION PLAN

After attorneys for the Chicago metropolitan transit authority and surface lines investors had reported progress on their efforts to arrange a sale of the lines to the authority, Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal district court yesterday granted a week's delay for completion of a definite plan.

For the authority Atty. Werner W. Schroeder said there were no serious disagreements over terms, but that the detailed work needed could not be done quickly. Atty. Henry F. Tenney, representing the first mortgage bondholders of the Chicago Railways company, approved the continuance. Judge Igoe said the court could not proceed until a plan is presented. Under the proposed agreement the surface lines investors would divide about $7 million dollars.

Atty. Philip H. Treacy, who has represented the federal works agency in traction litigation for six years, told the court his connection with the government had been severed.

David Romanelli, 21, of 135 E. 117th st., and Paul Yuknis, 34, of 319 E. 116th st., both recently discharged from the army, were arrested early yesterday 15 minutes after they had posed as federal agents. Chris Lambos, proprietor of the Main hotel, 334 W. 115th st., said they had robbed him of $115. Lambos identified the men who, he said, explained they were investigating his citizenship papers. He was robbed, he said, when he opened his safe to comply.

Find Woman with Skull Fractured; Hold Husband

Mrs. Mary Phillips, 47, was found unconscious from a serious head injury yesterday in her room at 507 N. Wells st., and taken to County hospital. Surgeons said she had suffered a skull fracture. Her husband, Edward Phillips, 45, a buffer, who found her, notified police. Police said he once was confined for 18 months in the Manteno state hospital. He was ordered held for further examination.

WARSAW: CITY OF LAUGHS AND PLENTY OF FOOD

In Poland, flew us the 350 miles from Berlin to Warsaw in two hours. Twenty minutes east of Berlin we crossed the new Polish frontier and saw the devastation of the Kuestrin battlefield, where the Red army forced the Oder river. Half an hour later we crossed the former boundary, near Poznan, with the German dragon teeth, trenches, and tank traps still visible.

The tank traps are now being used as canals to carry water to the farms, but the trenches are filled in and only a few pillboxes remain.

Between hundreds of villages farmers were plowing and harrowing, and burying sugar beets and turnips in clay pits for preservation during the winter. Only half a dozen

U. S. 82D AIRBORNE DIVISION TO BREAK UP; VETERANS SAD

BERLIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—The veteran 82d Airborne division is going home to be broken up and some of its older members don't like it.

The 78th division will start taking over occupation duties in Berlin Oct. 15 and the 82d (all-American) division will start to the United States for deactivation. A number of its officers and men have expressed hope that the war department would reconsider and keep the 82d active. It was activated at the same time as the 101st airborne division but has an older combat record. It was an infantry division in the last World war.

AIR LINE TICKET CASE DISMISSED BY JUDGE BARNES

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday dismissed indictments charging Paul Meilleur, 23, of 7138 Constance av.; Edward Priebe, 21, of 3815 Wesley av., Berwyn, and William Otis Arnold, 17, of 2212 E. 70th st., with violations of the national stolen property act in the alleged theft and attempted sale of $12,000 worth of Eastern Airlines passenger tickets. The court sustained the demurrer of Atty. George F. Callaghan, for the defendants, that the tickets were not securities. The stolen property act prohibits the transportation of securities in excess of $5,000.

EVICT GERMANS, MOVE 400 JEWS INTO 25 HOMES

3d Army Acts to Relieve Overcrowding

BY NOLAN NORGARD
FELDAFING, Germany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Four hundred Jews, part of nearly 5,000 who have been living in the American 3d army's camp for Jewish "displaced persons," began moving today into 25 nearby residences from which Germans were evicted.

Their transfer was a step toward relieving overcrowded conditions, ordered by Gen. Eisenhower after he visited the camp two weeks ago. Other correspondents and I visited this camp 30 miles from Munich at the suggestion of Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Eisenhower's chief of staff. Smith invited us "to take my plane and see for yourselves" when asked for comment on the report to President Truman by Earl G. Harrison, United States representative on the intergovernmental committee, that Jews were faring little better under American treatment than they had under the Nazis.

Patton Inspects Camp
We chose the Munich area because conditions in Jewish camps in this sector reputedly were not as satisfactory as elsewhere in the American zone. We arrived just an hour after Lt. Gen. Patton, American commander in Bavaria, inspected the camp to see if orders for relieving the overcrowding were being followed.

The camp's population, we learned, already had been reduced to 4,400 by the removal of nearly 600 persons, mostly children, to Fahrenwald camp, 15 miles away. More room also had been provided by moving the camp hospital into nearby quarters which formerly housed the prisoner of war hospital.

Job Not Finished
The job, however, is not finished. Col. James H. Polk, 34, of El Paso, Tex., took us thru the camp and explained: "Gen. Patton ordered me to start looking for more houses. We are going to keep on moving out the Germans and moving in the Jews until they are at least balanced."

Actual operation of the camp was taken over today by the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration under the direction of Edwards Richeson, Potosi, Mo. Richeson and Polk agreed emphatically on these points:

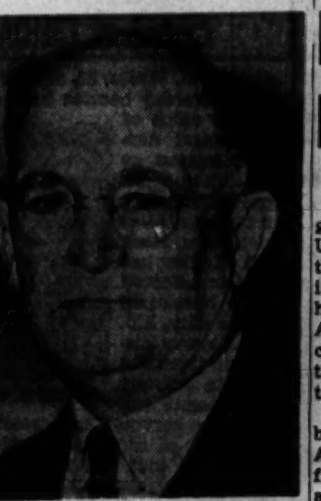

1. The food situation is good. The diet of all inmates runs close to 2,600 calories daily, exclusive of fresh vegetables and fruits. Men on wood cutting details get 3,000 calories.
2. The clothing situation is reasonably good and is improving.
3. The heating situation for winter is well in hand.

Needs More Penicillin
Dr. Henri Heitan, sent from the French army as a camp surgeon, said the camp needs more penicillin, and also hormones for treatment of some 30 male inmates the Germans castrated, but otherwise the medical supplies are adequate. The task of feeding the inmates is really impressive. In one family's room we were shown a chunk of butter exceeding half a pound and were told it was the ration for six people for a single day.

CAPT. GRASSIE TAKES COMMAND AT GREAT LAKES

Capt. Herbert J. Grassie, 51, former commander of the U.S.S. Idaho in the Pacific, yesterday succeeded Commodore Robert R. M. Emmet, 57, as commanding officer at the Great Lakes naval training center. Commodore Emmet, center commander since Feb. 11, 1943, was piped ashore from the naval reservation at 1:30 p. m. yesterday. He will go to the Bethesda (Md.) naval hospital for a physical examination and possible reassignment.

New Chief

LT. WILLIAM L. MCCARTHY

William L. McCarthy, former police lieutenant, was appointed chief of the county highway police yesterday by Sheriff Mulcahy to succeed John J. McGinnis, who died last Wednesday. McCarthy started his new duties after being sworn in the sheriff's office.

Chief McCarthy, 65, a member of the Chicago police department for 33 years until he retired in 1943, immediately issued a transfer order which he said was routine and could not be described as a "shakeup." The order transferred Lt. John E. Burns from Morton Grove station to the Homewood station to replace Acting Lt. Arthur Jelinek, who resigned yesterday; Lt. Peter Madura from Bedford Park (formerly Willow Springs) to Morton Grove, and Sgt. Max Ramelew was appointed acting lieutenant and transferred from Morton Grove to Bedford Park.

The order also transferred Deputy Herbert Bailey from Bedford Park to Chief McCarthy's office and appointed Deputy Henry May as radio operator at Bedford Park.

Chief McCarthy is married and the father of two sons, navy Lt. William J. McCarthy and Howard E., and a daughter, Mrs. Rita Sierka, whose husband, Maj. Richard Sierka, was killed in France. He lives with his wife, Blanche, at 7202 Eberhart av.

GERMAN ADVISER FOR AMG GETS TERM IN PRISON

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Erich Schulze, a German who served as confidential adviser to the American military government in Bavaria, was sentenced to six years imprisonment by a military court today after conviction on three charges: Giving false answers to an official questionnaire and concealing his 10 convictions for crimes such as fraud, forgery, and embezzlement; possessing contraband ammunition; illegal possession of allied property.

Schulze was identified by the prosecution in the trial as adviser to Col. Charles Keegan, former military governor of Bavaria, who was replaced at the start of the recent reshuffling of the criticized Bavarian administration.

VOTES TO TOSS POLL TAX BILL IN SENATE'S LAP

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—The senate judiciary committee today voted to throw the poll tax question in the lap of the senate. Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.) told reporters after a closed meeting that the committee voted to report to the senate the house-approved bill outlawing the collection of poll taxes as a prerequisite for voting in primary or general elections for federal offices. He said the committee also voted to report a bill by Sen. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) providing for a constitutional amendment forbidding such taxes.

BRITAIN PUTS U.S. IN MIDDLE ON PALESTINE ISSUE

(By Wireline to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune)

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The British government has put the onus on the United States for the next move in the problem of allowing freer Jewish immigration into Palestine. It has restated its case for joint Anglo-American responsibility for any decision that might evoke trouble in the Holy Land. It was reported authoritatively today.

This, in effect, was reported to be the substance of Prime Minister Attlee's reply, Sept. 16, to a letter from President Truman supporting admission of German Jews into Palestine. The President's letter, it was learned, was sent to Mr. Attlee after the United States rejected the first British request for joint responsibility for a Palestine policy.

Refuse to Send Warships
As a preliminary to announcing a new policy for Palestine the British sought to have the Americans send warships and planes to the middle east in case military action had to be taken as a result of a policy declaration. The rejection of the British request, followed by Mr. Truman's letter supporting freer immigration, aroused strong resentment within the British government which then decided to seek to place the Palestine problem before the allied nations as a whole.

This was to have been done, it is believed, by having the executive committee of the united nations or organization discuss the subject.

1,500 a Month Policy
Altho the reported intention of allowing 1,500 Jewish immigrants into Palestine monthly has aroused bitter opposition from all sides, it stands at the moment as the British government's policy which may be presented to parliament this month unless there is a change in the American attitude.

The British decision was not reached without strong opposition within the cabinet from ministers who wanted a more liberal policy to match the Labor party's pre-election promises of support for a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

The Zionists requested an additional 100,000 certificates for Palestine immigration, mainly for the surviving Jews of Europe. They sought to have about 35,000 orphaned children admitted and equal numbers of dependents of people already in Palestine.

At the moment, with the situation becoming more tense in the middle east daily and talk of a "holy war" and "revolt" being bandied about by both sides, the British are inclined to stall for time.

He said the daughter will remain here with friends. Chrysler, vice president of Grinnell college, arrived Friday to find Mrs. Curley, who had disappeared from a San Francisco beach Sept. 18.

CARRIER OF GUN IN FIGHT ADMITS MANSLAUGHTER

John Ricci, 17, of 1114 Vernon Park pl., pleaded guilty in Criminal court yesterday to a charge of manslaughter in the fatal shooting May 21 of Howard Canty, 16, a Negro, of 224 E. 60th st., during a fight between gangs of young men in front of the Chicago Mail Order company, at 511 S. Paulina st., where Canty was employed.

Patrick Card, 18, of 1032 Polk st., Fred Bartuch, 17, of 848 Lytle st., and Patsy Gallo, 17, of 3336 Polk st., pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to murder. They said they did not know that Ricci had a pistol.

Ricci testified that he knew there would be a fight because there had been trouble at the scene for several days and he took the weapon with him for protection. It was discharged accidentally when he fell, he said, and Canty was shot. Judge Julius H. Miner continued motions for probation to Oct. 16.

BARE HARTFORD HELPED ELLIOTT IN FEAR OF F. D. R.

House Report Supplies Details of Loan

loan from the Hartford brothers, John and George.

John Hartford's net income, as disclosed in the record, ranged between $1,317,027 and $2,814,863 annually from 1938 to 1943. His annual tax liability for these years ranged between $1,057,698 and $2,045,658.

Interview Arranged

Slovich saw Ewing and arranged for an interview of the Hartford brothers and Elliott and his uncle, the late Hall Roosevelt, according to the record. Hartford's testimony follows:

"Elliott Roosevelt called upon me as per appointment and during the course of the conversation I inquired of Elliott whether his father knew of Elliott's request for the loan and that I certainly would not make such a loan without the President's approving it. Elliott stated: 'Let's get dad on the telephone and said there would be no difficulty about obtaining his father's approval.'"

"Elliott put thru a call to the Little White House in Warm Springs, Ga., for his father. When the connection was made, Elliott said: 'Hello, Dad,' and after some preliminary conversation on personal matters, Elliott informed his father he was in John Hartford's apartment at the Hotel Plaza and said: 'Here's Mr. Hartford,' and handed the receiver to me."

Heard a Familiar Voice

"I said: 'Hello, Mr. President,' and I heard a familiar voice, a voice I had heard over the radio many times, say: 'Hello, John.' I then told him that Elliott was in my apartment and asked him what did he think about this $200,000 loan and the President said he was entirely familiar with it, that it looked good and gave assurance to me that it was a sound business proposition and a fine thing. He said he would appreciate anything I could do for him."

"I then told Elliott I was going to make the loan and that the only reason I was making the loan was that his father practically asked me to make it and I further told Elliott that I was not interested in radio and that I was not asking any favors."

Jones Never Repaid

"When I had ascertained the facts, I reported them to the President and he said he would appreciate it if I would confer with Elliott's creditors and find out what they were willing to do. I reported to the President that Mr. Hartford was willing to accept $4,000 for the collateral he held. I gave Mr. Hartford $4,000 which was my personal money."

"The President told me he would see that I was repaid—that Elliott would be able to pay from an inheritance he would receive from the estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt. The money has not been repaid, but Mr. Hanger

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 2—First Congress of Pan America

CO-OPERATION among the 21 republics of the western hemisphere was advanced on Oct. 2, 1899, when the first Pan-American conference met in Washington, D. C., at the invitation of Secretary of State James G. Blaine. All the countries except Santo Domingo were represented.

The conference voted for compulsory arbitration of disputes between members and made recommendations in many matters affecting commerce. Nearly all the work done was nullified by failure of the home governments to act on the proposals, but out of this meeting grew the International Bureau of American Republics, which later became the Pan-American union.

The importance of the Pan-American union has increased steadily thru the years. It serves as the permanent secretariat of the international conferences of American states, organizes many conferences to consider specific subjects, and is a center of information on inter-American relations. An example of the union's work is the inter-American coffee board, established in 1941, which set up the plan for dividing the United States coffee market among the 14 coffee producing countries of Latin America.

During World War II, the union helped to control subversive activities in the American republics and established an emergency committee for political defense, which recommended that, in event of a change in government instituted by force during the war, recognition should not be accorded until the American states until they had consulted among themselves. This principle was applied against Bolivia, Argentina, Guatemala, and El Salvador. The Pan-American union is controlled by a governing board composed of the secretary of state of the United States and the diplomatic representatives in Washington of the other republics. Its building in Washington was a gift from Andrew Carnegie.

(Elliott's attorney) told me that either Elliott or his former wife expect to pay it."

Charges Smooth Manipulation

The evidence showed that the President then wrote a personal note to Elliott's former wife, Ruth (now Mrs. Ruth Roosevelt Edison), and inclosed the Hartford stock, which was obtained by her in a divorce settlement. Rep. Jenkins (R., O.), a minority member, commented in his report: "All thru the testimony there runs evidence of the smooth manipulations of the President and the crafty horse trading of Jesse Jones. They were anxious to get the stock back and led Hartford to believe it was worthless, yet immediately after these transactions the stock began to advance in value."

The minority report filed by Rep. Knutson (R., Minn.) said the committee "has barely scratched the surface" and demanded the witnesses be called for cross-examination regarding conflicting statements.

2 SHOTS FIRED THRU WINDOWS; GIRL WOUNDED

Miss Veronica Hudzinski, 19, of face clerk employed by the Crane company, was slightly wounded last night by a gunman who fired two bullets thru two front windows of her first floor apartment at 5722 Winthrop av.

Altho Miss Hudzinski professed to have no enemies who would wish to assassinate her, Lt. Matthew Hayes of the Summerdale police reported that the girl's opinion that the shots had been fired aimlessly was not supported by her own story of what happened.

Bullet Grazes Shoulders

The girl said she had sat down on a divan to write a letter to a sailor friend after lowering the blinds on both windows of her apartment. About 10 p. m. the first bullet crashed thru one window and grazed her shoulders.

She related that she crossed the room and opened the apartment door. As she stepped into the hall, a second bullet, fired thru the other window, whizzed past her, tore thru a closed door of an adjoining apartment, and struck a window sill beyond.

Bullet Imperils Child

Both bullets were of .38 caliber. The second penetrated the apartment of Mrs. Margaret Lewis, who was sitting there with her three-year-old child.

Miss Hudzinski was given first aid at Edgewater hospital and removed to County hospital after she had been questioned. She said she came to Chicago about a year ago from her home in Merrill, Wis.

Miss Dorothy Galvin, 20, a clerk in the Merchandise Mart, who shares the apartment, was not at home at the time. Miss Galvin later said she could advance no reason for the shooting.

3,699 Take Out Licenses to Marry in September

Marriage licenses issued in September totaled 3,699, County Clerk Flynn said yesterday, as compared with 3,215 in September, 1944 and a pre-war average of 3,800. In August, 3,911 licenses were issued.

GEORGE H. WHITE, 37, NEW ANTI-NARCOTIC CHIEF IN CHICAGO

George H. White, 37, of 1142 Pratt

blvd., yesterday became head of the Chicago office of the federal narcotics bureau as successor to James J. Higgins, anti-narcotics chief here since 1938. Higgins has been transferred to the bureau in Kansas City, Mo.

White was discharged from the army in July as a lieutenant colonel after serving three years with the office of strategic services in the middle east and the orient. A former newspaperman on the Pacific coast, he joined the border patrol in 1933 and transferred to the narcotics bureau a year later. In 1937, he and another agent succeeded in joining a Chinese tong and got evidence which led to the arrest of 36 narcotics traffickers.

Charles Mazy, 54, transferred from St. Paul, Minn., took temporary charge of the Chicago office of the United States secret service on the retirement of Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, 60, of 2907 Pine Grove av., after 38 years in government service.

George T. Donoghue Jr. Out of Navy, Back on Job

George T. Donoghue Jr., 32, of 7722 Kingston av., son of the general superintendent of the Chicago park district, returned from navy service yesterday to the staff of United States Atty. Woll, who assigned him to the tax division. Donoghue was the first of 14 members of Woll's staff on military leave to return. He joined the navy in August, 1942, and served 18 months in the Pacific as a lieutenant.

FIVE BILLION CUT IN TAX ASKED BY VINSON, SNYDER

Would Relieve 10 Million from Income Levies

BY ROBERT YOUNG

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 — A three-point program to reduce the nation's tax bill by 5 billion dollars in 1946 was recommended today by Treasury Secretary Vinson and re-conversion Director Snyder.

The program was proposed by Vinson in a statement before the house ways and means committee and by Snyder in a report to President Truman and to congress. It included:

1. Repeal of the 3 per cent normal tax on individual incomes. This would remove between 10 and 12 million persons from the federal tax rolls and reduce tax revenues by $2,085,600,000. Vinson asked repeal by next Jan. 1, but Snyder did not recommend a specific date.

Profit Tax Repeal Asked

2. Repeal of the 95 per cent excess profits tax on corporations, a reduction of 2 billion 555 million dollars. Both Vinson and Snyder said this levy should be eliminated by the end of this year.

3. Removal or reduction of wartime excise taxes on such items as furs, jewelry, and cosmetics. The treasury secretary proposed allowing these taxes, estimated at 547 million dollars a year, to expire by July 1. Snyder urged a definite date for cutting the wartime excises to the 1945 level.

Altogether these reductions total $5,187,600,000, Vinson said an expanded volume of business activity and spending as a result of the tax relief would increase other tax collections enough so that the net loss in revenues would not be more than 5 billion dollars.

Boost Purchasing Power

Vinson and Snyder asked elimination of the 3 per cent normal tax on the ground that such action would boost individual purchasing power, particularly in the lower income groups. Similarly, they recommended termination of the excess profits tax as a stimulant for business expansion, higher wages, lower prices, and increased dividends.

Vinson also called attention to the fact that before the end of the year congress must decide whether to allow pay roll tax rates for social security insurance to increase automatically on Jan. 1 from the present 1 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent, as provided by law. He recommended that they be frozen at the present rate.

Snyder said in his report that the nation generally faces an optimistic outlook in reconversion, but he urged labor and management to reconcile their differences speedily to prevent a "serious block" to the shift from war to peace.

Repeating his prediction of 8 million unemployed by next spring, Snyder said the fact that substantial unemployment lies ahead must be faced because absorption of workers thru retirements from the labor force and increased employment is not likely to keep pace with military demobilization in the next six to nine months.

G. O. P. Wants 50% Cut

As Vinson was reading his report to the ways and means committee in a closed session, house Republicans were planning to fight for an alternative program which would give all individuals a flat 20 per cent tax cut.

Rep. Doughton (D., N. C.), committee chairman, said Vinson made a "good statement," but Rep. Knutson (R., Minn.), a member of the committee, asserted the Republicans would wage a vigorous campaign for their proposal to reduce personal income taxes 20 per cent in all brackets. Knutson commented, however, that "the country will acclaim" Snyder said in his report that the nation generally faces an optimistic

BATTLE 8 HOURS TO SAVE 500 ON A BURNING SHIP

PORT SAID, Egypt, Oct. 1 (AP)—An American nurse, one of the last persons to leave the flaming refugee ship Empire Patrol, today told of an eight hour battle to transfer nearly 500 children and elderly persons to a British aircraft carrier in a rolling sea.

Second Lt. Arlene M. Waldhaus, 27, Cleveland, O., of the United States Public Health service, said little of her own role in the rescue work when the 3,300 ton ship caught fire Saturday off Port Said while returning refugees to the Dodecanese Islands. But officers of the British baby flatboat Trower praised her efforts.

Smears Body with Butter
Lt. Waldhaus, the only nurse aboard, said fire broke out about noon. Hearing screams from the cabin, one deck below the promenade deck, she ran down and helped take out women and children.

She took one badly burned woman to the dining room and smeared her body with butter. The woman and her baby later were taken over the side in a stretcher.

The nurse said she was "reasonably sure" all children were rescued. Many passengers jumped overboard before all the lifeboats were launched, she recounted, and four hysterical women screamed constantly.

Pick Up Victims in Water

Flames first engulfed the vessel aft. Lt. Waldhaus said the chief engineer remained astern to help passengers to lifeboats sent by the rescuing flatboat, and nearly lost his own life. She helped to herd other passengers forward.

The Trower arrived about three and one-half hours after the SOS was sent out, and was the only rescue ship. The sea was so high, the nurse said, that lifeboats were unable to get close to the Empire Patrol, but picked up persons in the water.

Efforts to tie the Trower to the Empire Patrol failed, she said, and hawsers thrown from the flatboat "snapped like cotton" when tied to the burning vessel. Finally, passengers were put over the side and into lifeboats by means of rope slings under their shoulders.

Miss Eleanor Ault, 35, of Chicago, was in charge of a life boat from the Empire Patrol and was among those rescued. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Ault, 7323 N. Ashland av. A graduate of DePaul university, she has been overseas for 14 months as a representative of the National Girl Scout council engaged in returning Greek refugees to their homes from Palestine.

Revised British navy figures showed 522 rescued out of a total of 568 reported aboard. Two of the 49 man crew are unaccounted for. Salvage men reported that the ship, still afloat today, was in no danger of sinking, but practically beyond repair.

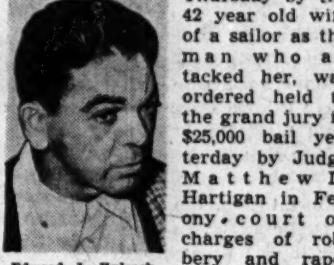

SHIFT IN MOVE TO FREE FOUR LIFERS IS MADE

Petitions for writs of habeas corpus to free four men serving life sentences for the murder of a Chicago grocer 10 years ago were withdrawn in federal district court yesterday. Judge Walter J. La Buy informed the convicts' attorneys that appeals first should be taken to the Illinois Supreme court.

The convicts are David Sinnenberg, Morris Jacobs, and Alex Shapiro, in Stateville penitentiary, and Bruno Austen, in the Pontiac branch. They were sentenced to one to 14 years for robbery in the hold-up of the store at 2229 Taylor st. Samuel De Rosa, son of the grocer, recently disclosed that in firing at the robbers he shot Benedetto. The Criminal court last week dismissed the convicts' petition for a new trial on the basis of the new evidence.

PAINTER IDENTIFIED AS RAPIST HELD TO JURY IN $25,000 BAIL

Edward J. Kulczyk, 39, of 4214 Berkeley av., who was identified Thursday by the 42 year old wife of a sailor as the man who attacked her, was ordered held to the grand jury in $25,000 bail yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in felony court on charges of robbery and rape.

Kulczyk, an unemployed painter, denied the charge. A watch which the woman said was stolen from her was found in Kulczyk's room.

An 18 year old south side high school girl reported to police that she was beaten unconscious and raped by a Negro who seized her on Peoria st., between 94th and 95th sts., about 9:30 p. m. last night as she was on her way home. The Negro dragged her into a prairie, threatened her with a knife, and struck her on the jaw when she resisted. The girl said a ring was missing from her finger. She was taken to St. George's hospital.

Willard Rainey, 36, a Negro, of 1656 Monroe st., was found guilty by Judge Leonard Reid in Criminal court yesterday of the rape of an 8 year old white girl and was sentenced to seven years in prison. The attack, which occurred May 29, was reported by the child's mother, who said Rainey lured the girl to his room with candy.

Rainey will go to trial Oct. 17 on a murder charge in the death on March 22 of Mrs. Lillian Joseph, 53, of 1206 S. Central Park av., who told police that Rainey, a window washer, had hit her on the head with an electric iron. She died of pneumonia and a concussion.

VANDALS SMASH SCHOOL'S EQUIPMENT
Vandals who broke into the Edmund Burke school at 8354 South Park way during the week-end upset wastebaskets and inkwells and smashed several glass table tops. Miss Elizabeth Byrne, acting principal, reported to the police yesterday.

THIS SO-CALLED PEACE.

It is probably well within the truth to say that not one American in a thousand is aware of the truly appalling prospect that faces several hundred million people this winter, particularly in central Europe and Japan. Nevertheless, it is a fact, borne out by the testimony of every competent reporter on the scene, that the combination of war's devastation and economic dislocation is going to exact a dreadful toll.

That is the background against which the futile maneuverings of the foreign ministers at London must be viewed. At best they couldn't have solved every problem, but they could have prepared a stable political order, and upon that foundation something could be built. They failed utterly.

They failed for many reasons. One of the more important was the widespread belief that what is called a hard peace would only serve our enemies right. They asked for it when they went to war; had they won, they would have treated us no better. Accordingly, let us give them the dose they prepared for us. That will teach them a lesson they won't forget.

Perhaps there are Americans whose moral sense is so blunted that they can regard such an argument as presentable. In truth, they are saying that Hitler was a great moral teacher and that the golden rule is folly. It is curious that the very people who a few years ago were urging us into war to save the world from Hitler's moral blight are today upholding his code.

It is probably futile to argue with them on questions of moral principle, but perhaps they can see that from the viewpoint of self-interest what they are doing is madness. The time will come when to the victorious nations the war and its hatreds will be all but forgotten. Every American knows that the north forgot the Civil war in this sense within a relatively few years. The bloody shirt was not waved in political campaigns in the north after the turn of the century and for a good many years before that the appeal to war passion was of small value. Just so, the time will come when the victors in this war will relent. On the other hand, the south has not yet forgotten the era of reconstruction. There is a story—probably not true, but nevertheless illustrative—to the effect that President Truman himself hesitated as a young man to join the national guard in Missouri because the uniforms were blue, and his forebears had worn the gray.

The fate that is apparently being prepared for Germany and Japan is far more severe than anything the south knew after the Civil war. The memory will be correspondingly longer and more embittered. A hundred years from now it will survive and demand its full measure of revenge.

Needless to say, the men responsible for starting the war should be punished and, along with them, the men responsible for the brutal mistreatment of political and military prisoners. What is in question is the policy of condemning all the people in the defeated lands to a lasting misery from which they cannot rescue themselves by hard work, reform of their political institutions, or anything else. That is sadism and savagery which cannot be excused, even on grounds of expediency, for it can only make another war inevitable.

One other point deserves stressing. The remedy for the prevailing disorganization abroad is not UNRRA or any variation of UNRRA. Relief is needed, but it will not begin to meet the problem. What is required is a determination to restore Europe and Asia to self-support as rapidly as possible. That can't be done while destroying the productivity of the most important industrial nation of Europe and the most important industrial nation of Asia. At last report, the steel production of the Ruhr, Europe's most important industry, was 1 per cent of normal.

HOW TO SPEED UP TRAFFIC

The traffic engineers probably have more precise figures on the matter, but it is our own observation that two parallel streets, each restricted to traffic in one direction, can accommodate at least 50 per cent more cars than the same two streets would with conventional two-way traffic.

Two of these one-way street systems have been suggested recently. One would utilize West End av. to reduce traffic jams in Washington st. west of Garfield park, and the other would provide a similar system on the near north side between Division st. and Lincoln park. Both would be useful and while, as the Chicago Motor club points out, they would not give the traffic relief that can be had from elevated highways, they could be put into operation almost immediately at relatively slight expense.

Ald. Kells, chairman of the city council committee on traffic and safety, approves the principle and it is to be hoped that his committee gets to work on the specific projects without delay.

An even greater aid, to both motorists and street car riders, would result if the city council adopted the principle that the main streets of Chicago, which are maintained by all the taxpayers of the city and not by owners of property fronting on them, are thoroughfares and not free parking lots. There is no excuse for allowing parking on any boulevard or street car street in the city.

Where it is allowed, traffic ways frequently developed at the cost of millions of dollars are reduced to narrow paths, usually permitting only one lane of traffic in each direction. Motorists can't get past street cars and street cars can't get past trucks which, because the curb is lined with parked cars, constantly double park on the street to make deliveries.

The parking evil exists, first, because the members of the city council invariably defer to the representative of a particular ward in regulating parking in that ward and, second, because every alderman is under pressure by local business men to permit parking in front of their establishments. There isn't an outlying business district in the city in which there is not enough vacant property where cars can be parked off the streets. In order to get a half dozen customers, business establishments make it difficult for hundreds of customers to get to their doors. Street widenings become farcical when the streets so improved are immediately usurped for parking purposes.

UNION RIGHTS AND PUBLIC RIGHTS

The CIO workers' union, which is striking at several refineries in the Calumet area, threw an automobile blockade and a mass picket line around the big refinery of the Standard Oil company at Whiting on Saturday. Standard's employees were not on strike. They do not belong to the CIO. They have their own independent union and have had it for a generation. Officials of that union said that they have no differences with the management to justify a strike.

The blockade was an effort to win the CIO's demands by making the public suffer. In order to make the public suffer it was necessary to keep men from working who wanted to work. Gov. Gates of Indiana acted promptly against this lawless conduct. He alerted the state militia and requested the CIO to break up its blockade. The CIO leaders complied, knowing that the governor would break it up if they didn't, but they are threatening political revenge against Mr. Gates because he refused to let them set themselves above the law.

In Detroit members of the same CIO union placed pickets at 17 filling stations. Those filling stations were the only ones which the union allowed to remain open. The pickets decided who might and who might not buy gasoline. The union set itself up as a super government, usurping the powers of the constituted authorities. Labor Secretary Schweinfach protested and union officials said they would bow to his protest, but at last report their goons were still carrying on the lawless rationing.

These incidents further clarify the public thought on unions. The right to join a union is universally conceded. Not only is it protected by law but public opinion recognizes the law as a desirable one which should be maintained. The right of the union to act by majority vote of its members, which, of course, includes the right to strike if the members want to strike, is conceded to not without exceptions.

Union membership, however, confers no right not possessed by all citizens. It confers no right to prevent others from working, especially by violence, in spite of the disingenuous words on that subject by the Supreme court. The rights of unions do not include a right of union bosses to pillage the union, nor to use it for purposes of blackmail, nor to commit it to action without consent of the majority, as the leader of the union at the Electromotive plant in La Grange, who has a personal grievance against the management, seems to have done. Nor does the union, a minority, have the right to impose on the majority of citizens. Where the welfare of the public is seriously compromised the majority has the right and the power to protect itself by outlawing strikes.

It has been demonstrated in New York and elsewhere that relatively small groups can disrupt the whole business of a city or endanger its health by elevator strikes, milk strikes, or the stoppage of other services essential to living in a modern community. It is generally recognized that employees of the government are barred from striking, because a strike against the government is only a step removed from a rebellion against it. That field obviously will have to be extended.

When a strike ceases to be a contest between employer and employee, and the employees seek to win their ends by depriving the public of essential services, the whole body of citizens have rights which transcend any of those of the striking minority. Maintenance of the public welfare and correction of some of these union abuses will require further legislation.

In a great many instances no legislation is necessary, but rather a determination by elected officials to prevent violence. The right to strike, the right to picket, and the also so-called rights of unions have never included and will never include the right to commit crimes.

STATEHOOD FOR ICELAND

(Illinois State Journal)

Congressional leaders are studying a proposal to purchase Greenland from Denmark and to admit Iceland to statehood. Both have been of great benefit to this nation in the conduct of the war. At the same time, both benefited through the presence of military forces. The result has been a decided growth in mutual esteem.

Economically, neither has ever had much of a chance, for the simple reason that no owner has been able to develop even the most accessible of resources—sealing and fishing. There is a possibility that both might prove as rich or richer than Alaska. But their chief advantage, from an American standpoint, is strategic. It was necessary to establish forces there to keep away the German submarines and to prevent their use by Nazi bombers. Coupled with the Pacific basin, which this nation most certainly will have after the war, Iceland and Greenland will serve as stations in a great circle of air-planes of the world. It goes without saying that they will be of vital importance in case of another war.

Iceland's government is one of the oldest of the world's democracies. Should an invitation to statehood be offered and accepted it would provide a splendid choice for the 49th American state. By the same token, Greenland would be a welcome addition to the American family.

RED LETTER DAY

If any one had said three months ago, "The Cuba will win the pennant come Michaelmas," he would have been regarded by his hearers as a merry wag, apt at satire, perhaps even a subscriber to the New Yorker. For "come Michaelmas," (pronounced "Micklemas") a rural remark, especially in English fiction, is good for an American grin at any time, although the grinner, modernized until he no longer has roots in his ancestral folklore, never knows when Michaelmas comes. Therefore this column takes mild pleasure in announcing that the Cuba consummated their flag winning ambition on Michaelmas, otherwise Sept. 29.

It is written in the Revelation of St. John the Divine: "Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, and prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven."

This passage explains why the archangel Michael has a day on the calendar, and high rank in church ceremonial, literature, symbolism, and folklore. He is the captain of the heavenly hosts and champion of opponents of Satan.

Aside from religious observances, the thing to do on Michaelmas is to eat a goose, if you are inclined to follow the customs of oldtime merry England. In this country, of course, ritualistic bird eating is limited to Thanksgiving day. In England, too, Michaelmas is a quarter day, when the landlord expects a "cheque" for the rent.

Americans have come to regard Michael as an Irish name, so much so that in derogatory slang one may call an Irishman a "mick," if he wants to take a chance. The Irish are fond of the name, but it has greater prevalence in European countries where the Greek Orthodox church is established. In Russia and the Balkan states, Michaelmas are quite common. Incidentally, English fiction of the Mayfair type has taken to naming its heroes Michael.

Michaelmas was also a great day for Northwestern's Wildcat. The dragons of Indiana came, with band wagons of worshippers, but they prevailed not.

POSTMAN'S PROGRESS

His plodding pace proved irksome, now and then. When day by day no word from Europe came; He passed us by again and yet again. With stolid face—who else were we to blame? Of course, as long sent letters did come true. He rang the bell and almost seemed to smile, And then we owned he had a lot to do. So we had best be patient for a while. But now we boast our postman is a prize; A kindly soul, he brought a V-mail key. Like all the rest, yet out of cloudy skies. He cleared away the ache in every throat; "Don't write again. I'm leaving here today; At last I'm coming home—I'm on my way!"

OUT OF HAPPINESS

Out of my happiness sorrow was born,
Twisted and gaunt as a lean cypress tree.
Out of the brightness deep darkness crept
Naked and wise—a lone sesame.
Out of my dreams strange dark wings arose,
Shielding the sun from laughter and love.
High in the wind a feeble note soared,
Plaintive and low as a restless dove.
Out of the past night-shadows walked,
Feasting on-time until early morn.
Out of the wild and sudden splendor,
Happiness died when sorrow was born!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0800, gives personal interviews.]

H. N. D. asks: "With what offenses may an officer be charged who is facing trial under the 95th and 96th articles of war?"

The 95th article of war covers conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman. It applies only to officers and cadets in the United States Military academy and those convicted will be dismissed from the service. The 96th article covers disorders and neglects to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, all conduct of a nature to bring discredit upon the military service, and all crimes and offenses not capital of which persons subject to military law may be guilty. The 96th article covers offenses not specifically mentioned in other articles of war, but an officer accused under the 95th article could not also be tried under the 96th for the same offense and on the same evidence. If tried under both articles separate offenses would have to be specified.

L. P. asks: "If two veterans desire to form a business partnership can each borrow the $4,000 maximum to buy $8,000 worth of equipment, or is the maximum obligation of the partnership limited to $4,000 with the government guaranteeing 50 per cent of the loan?"

Each veteran may borrow $4,000 to enter into a partnership in which each man will own 50 per cent of the business. The government will guarantee half of each loan, all other provisions being met.

THE CAPACITY OF THE EPILEPTIC TO WORK

"THE aura, the cry, the fall, and the fit" is the beginning of a ditty which many medical students learned to describe the sequence in epilepsy. These attacks may take place anywhere or any place and their occurrence on the street, in a store, or at business creates considerable excitement.

The seizures vary in type. In one form, petit mal, the victim has momentary loss of consciousness during which time expression becomes blank and his eyes stare. There comes a short interval of confusion. If the individual is walking, the pace may be slowed; were he eating he may not drop the fork and some even continue to chew.

In grand mal the typical convulsion is noted. The patient may have a premonition, which is called the "aura," a few moments prior to the bout. This warning phase is often referred to as flashes of light, heartburn, or tingling of one finger. Thereafter the sufferer utters a sharp cry and drops to the ground. At first the muscles become extremely tense and the body is held rigid. This is followed by purposeless, spasmodic, jerking motions of all the muscles. It is during this stage that frothing of the mouth is exhibited, and tongue biting is not uncommon. Should an attack occur in public very little can be done for the patient except to place a stick between the teeth to prevent damage to the tongue.

After a period of coma, during which the breathing is heavy, the patient awakens, dazed and confused. Some may tug at their buttons or make movements suggesting that they are scrubbing the floor. With the return of full consciousness, other than being plagued with headache, they can generally resume their duties.

The disorder is obviously a handicap in many respects but, thru proper management, it need not be in the majority of cases. The use of bromides, phenobarbital, and valproic acid, separately or in combination, has proved successful in preventing seizures or reducing their frequency.

In at least 80 per cent of the cases the cause is unknown. Injury or local disease of the brain probably responsible for the others. As a rule, the disease begins shortly before puberty and the diagnosis is always questioned when the onset appears in adult life. All convulsions do not necessarily imply that epilepsy exists.

It has been estimated that at least one-third of a million American men and women of working age are afflicted. These individuals usually find difficulty in obtaining employment because of public prejudice and laws regarding compensation. To combat the former, employers and employees must be made aware of the fact that the severity of the symptoms differs from mere blinking of the eyelids to marked paroxysms of convulsions. For job, the major number of victims are as normal as their associates.

Certain positions can be held safely where neither their own lives nor that of fellow workers will be jeopardized. The opportunity to work helps many maintain morale. To my knowledge the accident rate for victims is no higher than for non-epileptics. Most patients are receiving adequate medical care which includes instructions in safety measures.

Lives and Deaths of Jinks

Cream on pound of sugar and half a pound of butter. Beat the yolks and whites of eight eggs separately, and add the beaten yolks to the butter and sugar. Stir in half a pint of milk and one pound of flour with four teaspoons of baking powder. Flavor with lemon or vanilla and bake in three layers. For the filling, boil three cups of powdered sugar and three quarters of a cup of water for five minutes. Beat four eggs, the yolks and whites together, and into them stir the boiling syrup, add two cups of chopped raisins and two cups of almonds, chopped and blanched. Flavor with vanilla and spread thickly between the layers of cake. Cover with white frosting.

This column's campus scout at the University of Chicago sends in (without guarantee) an anecdote of the love life of one of the younger physicists in the metallurgical laboratory. He is a bomb maker.

The young scientist, so the story goes, chose for his rare hours of leisure and relaxation, the companionship of a fair but foolish damsel whose understanding of physics was minus 100 per cent by conservative estimate.

All went well until the story of Hiroshima and Nagasaki suddenly filled the newspapers and magazines with a flood of discussion about a rare metal called uranium.

"Darling, I toast some," the lady pleaded. "Even if it is rare you can give me a little piece, can't you? Enough for a barbeque?"

He said he couldn't do that, but promised that if she would be patient he would see what he could do.

That night he mailed her a note: "I've sent you one atom of uranium as soon as I can get it suitably engraved."

GARRISON DUTY

MINDANAO, P. I., Sept. 15—I am one of the many, many boys who were elected by our friends and neighbors to fight the enemy and protect our country. We have done our best, and went thru some pretty tough places. Now the war is over—Japan is being occupied and our job should be finished.

We are grown men and are almost all civilians at heart, just waiting for the day we can return home. So why in thunder don't they treat us as such. We didn't ask for army life—we were elected.

We all realize that military discipline is necessary and inspections are necessary for such a large group of men, but why overdo it?

We have retreat seven days a week, lights must be out at 9 o'clock (every candle or whatever we have), bed check at 10 o'clock, and mosquito bar inspection.

Boys who have survived Banzai attacks, charged "hot" pillboxes and bayoneted their way thru attacks, are being taken out in the mud and weeds and have to slip up on and charge an old pile of Jap plane wreckage, fix bayonets and simulate a charge and lighting an M-1 rifle. All of this is done by the book and every man there will tell you that if you go by the book in combat you don't go very far.

The weakness of the Japs was not being able to alter their tactics to meet the situation at hand.

What we want is a little of the pressure taken off while we do have to stay over here. If we take a cigarette out of our pocket and forget to button it, they nail us 10 bucks. We are in a coconut grove and the nearest town (Davao) is off limits and yet they are more strict about our quarters and the way we dress than in the United States.

They make us drill and parade like dress soldiers. The general made the remark: "The 19th is the fightingest bunch of boys I ever saw, but as garrison soldiers—they stink."

How much truth is in the story one cannot know; possibly, Tyler Kent can't tell us when he is released from prison, if some ex post facto law is not passed to keep him silent.

INSTALLMENT XX AN INSIDE JOB

Mr. Izenga took two steps into the room and was stopped by a reddish ball of fur that shot out from under the sofa and began to bound around him.

"Dear me, Eudora, I didn't know you had . . . this," Mr. Izenga glanced at the wild circles the puppy was making.

"It's a little cocker, I felt I was getting in a rut. Isn't she simply adorable? Isn't it terrible about poor Betty? Have the police gotten anywhere at all?"

"I don't know. It's rather early to expect results."

"Who is this young man Erica brought home?"

They discussed the Toby-Erica-Huntley angle with much thoroughness. A great deal of other village folk-lore followed. Then Miss Frobisher's old servant, Lizzie, bore an enormous silver tray into the room. It was loaded with cakes, sandwiches, and a huge silver tea set.

Miss Frobisher served tea. "Lemon? O dear, Letty loved lemon in her tea too. And a clove. I can't get used to her being gone." She rolled her eyes upward. "I hope that woman wasn't left anything."

"Not a cent."

"Goody," Miss Frobisher ate sandwiches diligently. "I know it's mean, but I wouldn't shed a tear if they found she'd done it. She always hated Letty, and she was out all hours the night it happened."

"Lucianna told the police she got in at a quarter of twelve that night, my dear."

"O! O what a wicked lie!" Miss Frobisher took another group of sandwiches. "Cornelius you're not eating a thing. You know this apartment house is only thrown together. I can hear every little thing upstairs. She didn't get in till 3 a. m. That shuffling, gliding walk of hers always wakes me up. Such big feet! I heard the hum of the elevator, and her door open, then her feet. I thought, good heavens, I hope she hasn't brought a man home with her. No consideration at all for other people. But no, she went to bed."

"You're sure it was Lucianna herself? Not a guest or woman visitor?"

"At that hour? And my dear, she hasn't any women friends as far as I can see. She's man mad."

"I thought it was just Bennet Pomeroy," Mr. Izenga sipped his tea.

"The way she deceives him is disgusting. What can he see in her anyway? There are always men sneaking up to her place."

Mr. Izenga's nose wrinkled.

"You know Eudora, Lt. French is a very decent young man. Would you mind if he came to see you . . . about when Lucianna got home? He'd be discreet, I know."

"O my dear, I'd love it. I can't stand that woman, and it would be so exciting to be part of a murder trial. And I love young men."

Mr. Izenga remembered the result of his afternoon's call on Miss Frobisher and relayed it to French who was properly grateful.

Juror Questioned

MRS. GRACE RUSSELL

Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court yesterday continued to Thursday his questioning of Mrs. Grace Russell, 22, of 3725 Union st., a telephone operator, who was withdrawn Saturday as a juror in the trial of Patrick (Patsy) Flaherty for the 2 million dollar robbery of the E. H. Rumbold safe deposit boxes. Six other women jurors testified that Mrs. Russell had told them she was acquainted with Flaherty and his family.

Judge Lindsay advised Mrs. Russell to retain a lawyer, with the comment that "this may be serious."

Assistant State's Atty. Clement D. Cody asked for the continuance for time to study the testimony of the other jurors relating to Mrs. Russell's acquaintance with the Flaherty family, a factor not disclosed when she was sworn as a juror.

Robert Rauch, 38, of 1528 Cortez st., alleged to have set a $7,800 fire at a greenhouse at 830 1/2 N. Ashland av., where he was employed, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court in $1,500 bond on a charge of arson.

Detective Frank Cote said Rauch confessed starting the fire last Tuesday because the owner, Robert Dunne, took another man as his partner in the business instead of Rauch. Rauch later repudiated the confession.

British Snare 2,500 Bottles of Whisky at $7 Each

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
LONDON, Oct. 1—One thousand five hundred thirsty customers lined up at Nottingham today for the first day of a three day sale of 2,500 bottles of whisky at $7 each. In Norfolk, buyers from all over Britain paid $38,000 for 2,250 turkeys.

Chief John Prendergast said 48,000 hours had been expended last year by policemen engaged in removing 35,000 persons to hospitals and said he believed work of that nature should be taken over by some qualified agency.

GETS 60 DAYS IN CHECK CASE

Richard Burns, 24, of 351 Walton st., who was arrested last Wednesday while trying to cash a stolen check for $45 in a currency exchange at 34 E. Roosevelt rd., was sentenced by Judge Jay Schiller in the South State Street court yesterday to 60 days in the Bridgeview.

STRITCH TELLS CHURCH PLANS TO AID VETERANS

Archbishop Stritch yesterday told newspaper men of the plans of the Chicago archdiocese to help the returning veteran. He said an organization, already at work, would make use not only of the church's vast institutional setup, but would work in close cooperation with all existing governmental and other agencies.

Despite the thorough organization necessary to put the resources of the church at the disposal of the veteran, the archbishop stressed both the religious and individualistic base of the project on which leaders of the church have been engaged since early summer.

Regular church procedure will be followed in matters of charity, with scores of experts and aids contributing their services, including: In medical problems, Dr. L. D. Moorhead; sociological situations, the Rev. Ralph Gallagher of Loyola university; psychiatry, Dr. Francis Gerty; public relations, Homer Buckley and Martin Kennedy; insurance, John M. Timmons; law, Edward R. Tiedebohl; banking (loans), Thomas Beacom; real estate, John R. O'Connor.

TRAN CONG 90 M.P.H. HITS CAR, KILLS 3 IN ZION

Woman, Daughter, Youth
Die at Crossing

Three persons were killed yesterday when their automobile was struck by the "400," fast Chicago and North Western railroad train, at the 27th st. crossing in Zion. Police Chief Alvin Ruesch estimated the train's speed at the time "at better than 90 miles an hour."

The victims were Mrs. Mabel Scott, 43, her daughter, Maxine, 18, of route 1, Bristol, Wis., and Everett Applegate, 19, of 29 Charles st., South Kenosha, Wis., who was driving. Applegate and Miss Scott were close friends, and he had called for her and her mother at the Zion bakery, where they worked, to drive them home. Mrs. Scott was the mother of 10 children.

Parts of Car Hurled Into Air

Just before the "400" reached Zion outboard from Chicago, another northbound passenger train pulled to a stop near the 27th st. crossing to allow it to pass. At the same time a southbound freight train was moving. The driver of the car waited for the freight to pass, then pulled around it and drove in front of the express. Pieces of the automobile were hurled thru the air, part of the motor flying thru a rear coach of the train on the siding, but not hitting any one.

Chief Ruesch said his warning signals were operating at the crossing.

Miss Dorothy Paulsen, 23, of 8751 Harper av., a teacher in Wendell Phillips High school, driver of a car that struck Park policeman Thomas Loftus, 48, Sunday night at Congress and Michigan av., was charged in Safety court yesterday with leaving the scene of an accident and operating a car without a safety sticker or a city vehicle license.

Cases to Be Heard Oct. 31

The case was continued at the request of the state to Oct. 31. Policeman Loftus, of 7532 Parnell av., suffered internal injuries and a possible skull fracture and his condition was reported serious yesterday at St. Luke's hospital.

Capt. Nancy C. Engwall, 27, of the marine corps, was killed Sunday in an automobile accident near Irvine, Cal. her father, Martin M. Engwall, of 208 N. Central av., was notified yesterday. Miss Engwall, who was born at Moline, attended the Illinois Institute of Technology and was employed in the metallurgy department of the Revere Copper and Brass company before she joined the marines in May, 1944.

FRED TAPSCOTT, 'MIRACLE SHOT' DETECTIVE, DIES

Fred C. Tapscott, 65, former detective sergeant who fired "the most miraculous shot in police history," died yesterday in his home, 6640 Minerva av., of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was a member of the police department for 34 years, assigned for eight years to the detective bureau, and was desk sergeant at the Burnside station when he retired March 12, 1942.

William Webb, a Negro ex-convict, who had been firing at another detective, aimed a revolver point blank at Tapscott in a street at Cottage Grove and 31st av. on March 25, 1932, but Tapscott fired first. The bullet entered a chamber in Webb's revolver, lodging there and knocking the weapon from his hand. When he retired, Tapscott said he always would remember that shot, and also bringing back "Terrible Tommy" O'Connor, police murderer, from Minnesota to stand trial. O'Connor later escaped from County Jail in 1921 and had eluded capture ever since. Tapscott was known to boxing fans in the 1920s as Jack Dempsey's bodyguard.

He is survived by two brothers and three sisters. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 1409 E. 67th pl.

JUDGE MCGOORTY UPSETS PART OF 1942 ZONING ACT

Rules Against Moves for Park Site

The city's comprehensive zoning act of 1942 was ruled invalid yesterday by Judge John P. McGoorty of Superior court in its application to a manufacturing site that 40th ward residents wanted for a park. He held that city authorities had not complied with statutory requirements for a zoning commission to consider the ordinance, but instead had given the task to a committee of the council.

The property involved fronts on Irving Park rd. just east of California av. and was bought in 1941 by the 2700 Irving Park Building corporation as the site for a light manufacturing plant. Under the 1923 zoning ordinance, such use was approved. The first step to claim the factory site and surrounding acreage for a park was taken in the 1942 ordinance, which rezoned part of it for apartment buildings.

Second Step Taken in '43

Dr. Joseph C. Ross was then 40th ward alderman. The rest of the tract was rezoned in the July, 1943, amendment, when Samuel P. Gorman had succeeded Dr. Ross in the council.

In his ruling Judge McGoorty stated:

"It was the desire of Dr. Ross, as alderman, and of the citizen groups to have the tract eventually used for park, playground, or school purposes, and the rezoning . . . was devised by Dr. Ross and these groups as a stopgap to demolish and prevent any use of the 53 acre tract for industrial purposes until a program of park, playground, or school use could be developed."

Rezoning in 1943, said Judge McGoorty, "was affected substantially by local pressure groups acting under the leadership of Samuel P. Gorman."

Rights Limited, He Rules

Judge McGoorty ruled that neither city nor state has power under the constitution to take away or limit the rights of the citizen groups to have the tract eventually used for park, playground, or school purposes, and the rezoning . . . was devised by Dr. Ross and these groups as a stopgap to demolish and prevent any use of the 53 acre tract for industrial purposes until a program of park, playground, or school use could be developed."

LT. COL. HODGIN WILL HEAD BOYS' TRAINING SCHOOL

Eddy Named Chief of Children's Hospital

LT. Col. J. Clifford Hodgkin of Ottawa, La. Salle county, today will open in as superintendent of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles and its branch at Sheridan. The institution has been troublesome to state administrations for some years because of numerous escapes.

CLIFFORD—Eddy, a veteran of both World wars, is a member of the executive office of the 1st Infantry which invaded and captured three airmen in New Guinea during the war in the South Pacific. He returned to this country after the war and worked for the Bell Telephone company for 20 years.

Richard Eddy, who resigned in August as head of the school, was appointed yesterday by Gov. Green as superintendent of a new school hospital for physically handicapped children authorized by the 1945 legislature.

Four of the five inmates of the school who escaped during a boxing show Sunday night were apprehended on a railroad bridge in St. Charles yesterday. They are Thomas O'Brien, 17, of 5853 S. Racine; Le Roy Corda, 17, of 117 S. Pauline; George Thomas, 18, of Moline, and William S. Malloy, 17, whose mail address was given as 517 Aldine av. John Clark, 18, of Eldorado, Saline county, still is at large.

George W. Kibby

Services for George W. Kibby, 77, of 835 Lake av., Wilmette, a retired shoe manufacturing supply executive, were held at 3 p. m. yesterday in the Memorial Park cemetery chapel. Mr. Kibby, who also was a former director of the Nekoma, Wis. Paper company, died Friday in Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. Survivors include his widow, Sue, and a sister, Mrs. M. H. Gage, West Hartford, Conn.

Paul E. Johnson Sr.

Services for Paul E. Johnson Sr., 53, of 2808 S. Park way, physical therapy equipment manufacturer, will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Berean Baptist church, 52d and Dearborn sts. Mr. Johnson was injured fatally in an automobile accident Friday at Chapel Hill, Tenn. He is survived by his widow, Mary, and a son, Capt. Paul E. Johnson Jr., of the army medical corps, one sister, and two brothers.

Ellen Ryerson to Make Bow at Double Party

BY JUDITH CASS
THE annual problem facing parents of debutante daughters—whether to present them to society at simple family teas or at more festive evening parties—has been solved neatly by the Joseph T. Ryersons, who have decided on a double party Dec. 26 for their youngest daughter, Ellen. Friends of the family will be invited to meet the debutante at an afternoon tea in her parents' Astor st. home, and later that evening the strains of the latest dance tunes will echo thru the house during a dinner-dance for young people.

Altho the bid is in the midst of her studies at Vassar college and so will not be on hand for the St. Luke's fashion show Oct. 17 in the Medinah temple, her sister, Miss Anne Ryerson, will take her place with the mannequins that afternoon. Now that the war is over Miss Anne Ryerson has abandoned her plan to enter nursing. She returned home Sunday after completing her pre-clinical course at the New York Presbyterian hospital.

The eldest sister of the family, Mrs. Donald A. K. Brown, and Mr. Brown are en route to Acapulco, Mexico, for a few weeks' rest, now that Mr. Brown is out of uniform. Lt. Joseph T. Ryerson Jr., still is stationed in Detroit. His wife and three little girls are in Northeast Harbor, Me., waiting for how soon he will be discharged from the army.

Other Debut News

The debut party which the Gilbert H. Scribners have planned for Dec. 29 in the Indian Hill club for their daughter, Mary, will be shared by another young woman, Miss Sylvia Mason, whose name is being added to the debut list. Miss Mason, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Roswell B. Mason, divides her time between the Winnetka home of her uncle and aunt, the Frederic O. Masons, and New York, where her sisters, Mrs. Dimmick Drake and Mrs. Gilbert B. Smith, live. The Drakes and the Smiths will be hosts at the Christmas holiday tea with the Scribners, Miss Scribner attends Northwestern university and Miss Mason is a student at Pine Manor.

The Indian Hill also will be the scene of a debut tea which the David Wheeler Kimballs and Mr. and Mrs. Muscoe Burnett Jr. will give Dec. 22 for their daughters, Miss Lina Kimball and Miss Bleeker Burnett. Later that evening Miss Kimball's grandmother, Mrs. William Winton, will give a supper party in the Pump room for the buds and their assistants at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Laurie and the Russell T. Sterns will give a brunch party Dec. 30 in the Starns' Northbrook home for Miss Burnett. She also will share honors with Miss Rosanna Welsh at a luncheon which Mrs. Rufus R. Jeffris and Mrs. Edward R. Adams will give Jan. 4 in the Woman's Athletic club.

The Francis M. Knights' debut party for their daughter, Margaret, will be a small tea at home in Highland Park on Dec. 30. She attends Smith college.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norman Kling will give a debut luncheon Jan. 3 in the Woman's Athletic club for their daughter, Barbara, who attends Bennett Junior college.

Wedding News

When Miss Susan Sheridan asked her brother, Murray Carleton Sheridan, to look after her wedding at Washington university upon reporting to a convalescent hospital in Miami, Fla., she little realized that she was playing cupid. While young Mr. Sheridan was recovering from war wounds and his sister's friend, Miss Jean Smith, was attending summer school at the University of Miami, they became friends and now are making plans to be married at 10 a. m., Oct. 27, in St. Patrick's church.

Mr. Sheridan, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ensign Sheridan of Highland Park, will have as best man, brother, Calhoun, as best man. After the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris F. Smith of Paducah, Ky., will give a wedding breakfast at the Blackstone hotel. The bridegroom's uncle, Lt. Col. James T. Sheridan, just has returned from Naples, Italy, where he served as public relations officer for the 15th air force, and he and his wife will come from Detroit, Mich., for the wedding.

Young Mr. Sheridan, who attends the University of Illinois, received a medical discharge in August from the army air forces, in which he served as a sergeant. During his six months overseas he was wounded while flying over Austria. The senior Sheridans will give a Christmas tea for their daughter, Susan, who has transferred to Mundelein college this year, and at that time their friends will have a chance to meet the bride of the family. The Sheridans also have a younger daughter, Sheila.

Birth News

From New York City the Hayden B. Harris send word of the arrival of their latest grandchild Sept. 27 in Leesburg, Va., where the baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Symington (Valeria Harris), make their home. The little girl, who has been named Dieder Huntington, has a 3 year old brother.

Their first child, a son, was born Sept. 22 in the Evanston hospital to Lt. J. J. and Mrs. Marvin E. Holdredge (Virginia Chase Marshall) of Winnetka. The baby has been named Richard Edgecombe. He is a

All day at the office, the weather is fine—
The temperature's perfect—the sun's sure to shine;
But then, as by clockwork, at five it just pours;
O, why does the rain wait till we're out of doors!

ELISE MURIEL FARR
Falling Short
I thought she was the ideal WCO when first I met her:
Perfect daytime makeup, each blonde hair in place, sparkling eyes, good teeth, perfect complexion.
Careful grooming, nary a wrinkle in her clothes, her shoes neatly polished, the heels straight, and seams straight on runnerless hose.
Good voice and proper enunciation of words. [I could imagine her practicing for hours for that rounded tone!]

Efficient in her work, seldom idle, always willing to help out in other departments.
But:
She "popped" her chewing gum. She called every one by his first name, including the office manager. She summoned co-workers to her desk for information she needed. She yelled across the office, disrupting the routine.

When two or more people were talking, she joined in the conversation, giving her opinion even though it had not been sought.
Her office manners were larksome. She never got a raise.

Neon Hour Observation
As a taxicab drove into the parking lot on a recent rainy day the white collar girls of Willoughby Tower were entertained to watch the cab go slowly, and with frequent stops, up the lane of cars and then turn about and proceed half the way back as the passenger in the cab obviously couldn't find his car. In the rain he got out for closer inspection of the parked cars, scurried back (still unable to remember where he had parked his car) and finally drove off—in the taxi.

In five two-hour sessions, wonders are promised for face, figure and hair styling, with a graduation certificate as additional glamor or incentive. . . . Two unusually attractive women have been appointed corporate officers by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey—the first in the company's history. They are Muriel E. Reynolds and Margery M. Latest Vacuum Cleaner Is Built for Heavy Duty

BY EDITH WEIGLE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 1.—The American woman expects a lot from her new, post-war model being put thru it, and she is not going to be disappointed. At a huge plant in North Canton, O., we watched a brand new, post-war model being put thru its paces and here in Detroit we saw two others that are about to make their debut. All three are highly efficient.

The Ohio factory is being reconverted from the manufacture of parachutes for fragmentation bombs, helmet liners, and bomb fuses to its regular job of turning out 1,000 vacuum cleaners a day. Of course, it's not up to that volume now, but it expects to get there before long. And the first of the batch are already on the market.

This new model has several improvements. All the attachments plug in easily and quickly at the side without the removal of any cap or lid. An electric light bulb is placed so that it illuminates the rug or carpet immediately in front of the cleaner. This is an efficient idea for dark corners or dark rugs.

Heavy aluminum, finished in gray and combined with a maroon toned plastic, cover the mechanism. Sturdy rubber covering on the corners of the machine protects furniture from being bumped.

The patented feature of this vacuum cleaner is that a special device in the "vibrator" or roller beats the rug while the brushes sweep it. Thus, the vacuum cleaner and dirt are brought to the surface and collected in the bag by means of powerful suction. The rug is actually lifted off the floor slightly so that this beating can take place. The makers believe that only in this way can a rug or carpet be cleaned properly.

We asked if it would ever be possible to make a noiseless cleaner, and were told that for years the research and development department of this company had been working on the problem. The deluxe model has a muffler which deadens the noise somewhat, but this gadget costs money and at present cannot be put in the lower priced machine. The deluxe model also has a disposable paper bag within the outer cloth bag, which holds the dirt. This bag can be thrown away after being used a short time, and another one inserted.

In Detroit, the plant we visited turned out both the bag and tank types of vacuum cleaners. Both models are all maroon and are part metal, part plastic. The bag is at the side of the cleaner and the attachments plug in at the front.

In the bag cleaner the rug is swept by two kinds of brushes, one being of nylon and slightly longer than the other, to act as beaters. The shorter brushes are pig bristles and these remove the surface dust and lint.

A new attachment for the bag cleaner enables it to wax floors. Another product of this Detroit company is a cordless iron. You plug in the stand, not the iron, and the heat is thermostatically controlled. When the iron rests in the place on the stand it is heated as the stand is kept constantly at the same temperature—one for cotton, another for rayon, etc.

Still another item in the line of this firm will be a food disposer unit, which will make its appearance in 1946. It will fit into any sink, will be electrically operated, and will dispose of all garbage. It grinds bones to fine bits.

This is the sixth in a series of stories by Edith Weigle, home furnishings editor of The Tribune, who is visiting factories throughout the middle west to give Tribune readers a first hand report of the newest items in household equipment as they are coming off the assembly lines.

A Simple Chair, Ideally Suited to Baby's Needs, Is Easy to Build

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
A summer at camp when my son was very small led to my improvising a chair and table for his use.
The little chair and table were so simple that any one who knows how to handle tools in the most elementary way can make them. The boxes of which this furniture was made came originally from the grocer's. He used them for delivering groceries and I found that when my little boy was in the kitchen one of them made a perfect little seat for him. They were surprisingly substantial, too.

A chair built specially for baby should be so designed as to provide maximum comfort, Mrs. Bevans says today.

The box for the seat was 16 inches long, 10 inches deep and 11 inches high. I used it lengthwise. I knocked away the front, making a comfortable place for little feet to tuck under. I had, luckily, some 11 inch planking in my back yard. From this I saved a piece exactly the length of the box. This was to be the back. By another stroke of luck I found some small strips a little wider than laths. Two small lengths of these formed supports to hold the back in place. Nailed first to the piece of plank and then to the back of the box with rather small wire nails they provided absolute security.

For the table I used, also lengthwise, a box of about the same proportions; it was about two inches longer, two inches wider, and five inches higher. Your child may need a little different height depending upon the proportions of his body. I knocked away not only the front but the base. For the table top I cut two lengths of the 11 inch plank. Each was 28 inches long. I planed the edges so that they met without a crack. This is important for cleanliness as well as looks.

I nailed these together with two strips of wood. These two cleats were so spaced as not to interfere with nailing the top on the foundation. Laying the top in place, I nailed it firmly to the base box.

While some of these dimensions may vary, the three most important things to bear in mind for the baby's comfort are: That the height of the seat from the floor must be right; the depth of the seat from front to back, and the relation of the table height to the chair. This is not as difficult to determine as it sounds.

Let your toddling baby sit down squarely and lean back. Slip your fingers under the bend of his knees. If, with his feet resting on the floor, the muscles and tendons under his knees are soft and relaxed, then he is properly seated.

ON THE AISLE

By Claudia Cassidy
Margaret Webster's "Tempest" Captures Only a Hint of Shakespeare's Magic

The last complete work of the master playwright, Shakespeare's "The Tempest" is one of the most enchanting plays ever written, and one of the toughest to stage. It is even harder on a director than Wagner's "Ring," for Wagner is content with dragons and magic fires and such, and his music pours resonantly from molten throats, human, brazen, and strangled, while Shakespeare's "insubstantial pageant" is a thing all imaginative air and fire and water and without supreme eloquence its poetry is struck dumb. Little of that eloquence lurks in Margaret Webster's revival at the Studebaker, for this is a pedestrian production at its best in the low comedy scenes sparked by Wallace Acton's wry Trinculo and caught up by Benny Baker's Stephano and the sometimes curiously touching Caliban of Canada Lee.

Miss Webster's production has been called a stunt, but I doubt if it was so intended, at least in the cheap sense of the term. It looks to me like something that didn't come off as planned, and if you check on the number of "Tempest" revivals you will admire her courage if not necessarily her results. What she planned I don't know, but what she got misses magic.

For one thing, the sorcerer's island is an ugly place as Motley placed it on a competent revolving stage. This is doubly disappointing after the bright promise of the painted ship on gauze that mercifully veils the theatrical massacre of the shipwreck. For another, David Diamond's score is a dull pain in the ear. For still another, and this is disastrous, most of the acting is awful.

It isn't a bad conceit to juggle the scenes to end the play with Prospero's "We are such stuff as dreams are made on," but it is valid only if the actors, in Shakespeare's own words, have been spirits melting into the air, for how else can you capture the myriad moods of this tale of sorcery for justice, of love at first sight, of monsters and sprites and music that bubbles out of the very words and sometimes bursts into song? You can't do it without actors who vault the very blue of theatrical heaven.

Miss Webster has winged Zorina for Ariel and she moves like a dream and speaks distinctly. She also sings. The Negro Canada Lee for a freckled whelp, hag born, is mired in a monstrous make-up of greenish face and horned hands and instructions to gibber. But when he gets hold of a line like "a thousand twanging instruments" he goes out on his own and gives it something. Arnold Moss's Prospero looks better than it deserves by comparison with most of the competition, and Mr. Hachmeister's Ferdinand has promise in a Van Johnsonish sort of way. But my vote goes to Mr. Acton's first scene, which brings a dead play sharply to life.

Let your toddling baby sit down squarely and lean back. Slip your fingers under the bend of his knees. If, with his feet resting on the floor, the muscles and tendons under his knees are soft and relaxed, then he is properly seated.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 1.—Nice blending. Lana Turner, Clark Gable, and Marjorie Main in "Lucky Baldwin," which gets going soon. Lana deserves a good part at Metro. She did some fine acting and was breathtakingly beautiful in "Week-End at the Waldorf." . . . This handed me a giggle. Metro lent one of their best comedy writers, Lionel Houser, to Warner, and he dashed off "Christmas in Connecticut" [a top money-maker], which starred Barbara Stanwyck. Because of that hit for a rival company, he has been upped to a producer by Metro. . . . Know how Ed Gardner gets his jokes? He entertains Dorothy Parker, Bob Benchley, and Deems Taylor, and has a secretary present taking down their witticisms. . . . When I met Deems Taylor's wife, I called her the child bride. He remarked, "I wonder what you were when you married De Wolf Hopper?" I'm sorry, Deems, so many years have rolled over since then, I keep forgetting my husband was 5 years older than my father. In fact, since my son Bill has been away so long, I keep forgetting I ever had a husband.

It's Just All for Fun

Clifton Webb danced—not on the floor but on the lawn—with Greta Garbo at a party, and caught cold. He couldn't do the "suspense" which was taken over by Joe Cotten. Joe's reward is that he gets to do another "suspense" with an original script by Ben Hecht. Clifton, recovered sufficiently to send this wire to his pal, Spencer Tracy, on Spencer's opening night in Providence, R. I.: "I wouldn't be as nervous as you must be tonight for anything in the world." Hey, Cliff, what a way to soothe the nerves of a friend! . . . Oh, no! Not Alexander Knox for "The Late George Apley," when Leo Carroll is so perfect. . . . Some men are just born lucky. Charles Mendel got a taste of acting in "One Man's Family" and wanted to see himself on the screen, so now he has been invited to do a small part with Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman in "Notorious." Super-Duper Alfred Hitchcock is directing it. . . . Speaking of Mendel, I ran an item about his being picked up by an Irishman when Mendel's car broke down. The gent from the Emerald Isle writes me: "Now, if you had told the story as Charles gave it, the old saw, 'Brevity is the soul of wit' would have been covered. I said: 'Oh, you're a Limey! You look like Col. Blimp in distress.' This Ulsterman continues, 'Off the record, the British are fine people, but they would be lost without the Irish and Scottish to protect them on occasion beyond their insular limits out in the cold, hard world.'"

Scramblings, but No Eggs

She watched Keenan Wynn, Edward Arnold, and Marian Koshetz do "It Will Be Great to Get Back Home, Set 1" for "No Leave, no Love." There's a song to end all songs. Guy Lombardo took time out to play the number he did for me on the air—"I Wish I Knew." Guy soon gets his vacation in West Virginia, where he'll race his boat "Tempo." . . . Charles Martin is so excited over Pat Kirkwood's acting, he's sending her red roses. . . . John Dahl arrived in New York only to be rushed into his old part in "Dear Ruth." It seems both leading man and understudy were ill. . . . Deems Taylor's son sure "cottons up" to his old man. When Dan asked if he'd like to ride the merry-go-round, he replied, "Sure, dad, if it'll make you happy." . . . Hollywooders are going to feel at home in the Waldorf's Wedgwood room. Charley McCarthy will heckle Edgar Bergen four weeks, then Frank Sinatra takes over. And after that Danny Kaye will warble Sylvia Fine's ditties.

The Comment Courtesan

When George Bernard Shaw met Vivien Leigh at the rehearsal of "Caesar and Cleopatra," he mentioned that he'd seen her in his play.

On the Calendar

The opening meeting of Le Cercle Français today in the Fine Arts building will be a reception to welcome the new president, Mrs. Cyril L. Ward, and new members of her board. Miss Helen Clare, dramatic soprano, will sing a group of French songs, and Jacques W. Welch of the French Information service will speak on French-American friendship. Pouring at ten will be Mr. Harry Dingman, outgoing president, and Mme. Jean Viala, wife of the French consul.

Cards have been mailed to friends of the Beverly Hills center of the Infant Welfare society telling them that a station will be open Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 1805 W. 103rd st. to receive contributions for the Thrift shop which the center maintains. Twice a year since 1942 the center has set up a neighborhood receiving station for the convenience of donors who are unable to take their gifts of discarded clothing and household articles to the shop at 11445 S. Michigan av. The shop is the center's only money-raising project. Mrs. Dearborn Hutchison is chairman of the board and of the fall campaign.

"Doctor's Dilemma," and thought she looked very ladylike. But now since they'd met, he told her he'd changed his mind again—she was the perfect Cleopatra. . . . Frieda Inescort's trip to New York to play opposite Walter Abel in John Van Druten's new play which stars Beatrice Pearson. . . . My friend, Emily Kimbrough, outdid me a thousand to one at the unveiling of Richard Kitchen's portrait of Peggy Wood. Emily brought her bird Nellie along in a three foot cage made in the shape of a hat, which she wore all during the party. I call that unfair! Peggy's portrait was charming, and was admired by Ronald Colman and wife, Charles Brackett, and Lester Donahue among others. . . . Well, well, so I've been tagged by Elsa Maxwell. SENATORS TURN DOWN M'KEOUGH FOR U.S. JOB, 10-7

Fear Upset in 'Delicate
Labor Situation'

BY PHILIP DODD
(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—The senate commerce committee today turned thumbs down on President Truman's nomination of Raymond S. McKeough, CIO political leader and former Chicago congressman, to be a member of the maritime commission. It voted 10 to 7 to report the nomination unfavorably to the senate.

If the senate sustains the committee's action, it will be the first rejection of a Truman political appointment. Two Democrats joined with eight Republicans on the committee today to disapprove McKeough's nomination.

Sen. Overton [D., La.], chairman of the subcommittee which recommended the adverse report, said in an interview the basic objection to McKeough was that his presence on the maritime commission would be like "tossing a match into a powder keg" because of the tension between CIO and AFL maritime unions.

"Delicate" Labor Situation
"In the post-war period," Overton said, "we must maintain our international trade and that requires a strong merchant marine. We can't do anything to upset the delicate labor situation in the merchant marine."

Two weeks ago the commerce committee had refused to act on McKeough and threats were made to pigeonhole the nomination. But President Truman stepped into the situation, it was learned, with a letter to Chairman Bailey [D., N. C.] asking that the nomination be reported to the senate. The President did not, however, directly ask for a favorable report.

Hot Fight Predicted
Neither Bailey, who voted for McKeough, nor Overton, who was opposed, would predict the senate's action on the nomination, but Overton said it would be a "hot fight."

One of today's surprises was the vote of Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.] in favor of McKeough. He had been opposed to the nomination as a member of the subcommittee but it had been reported in political circles that National Democratic Chairman Hannegan had upbraided Bilbo for his action and asked him to support McKeough in the cause of party regularity.

"It looks as if we were still clearing with Sidney," was the report of one Republican committee member today in commenting on Bilbo's vote.

It was learned that Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.], altho not present and not voting by proxy today, had urged postponement of a vote for a week. His suggestion, it was said, was that a later vacancy on the commission could be filled by an AFL man, thus balancing the labor union representation on the maritime commission.

Like Naming "Two Duellists"
Acknowledging that McCarran's suggestion had been discussed today, Overton said the proposal was "out of the question" because it would be like "appointing two duellists" to the commission and would intensify labor difficulties in the merchant marine.

The vote in the committee was: Republicans against: Vandenberg [Mich.], Brewster [Me.], Wiley [Wis.], Robertson [Wyo.], Cordon [Ore.], Brooks [Ill.], Hart [Conn.], and Knowland [Cal.]. Democrats against: Overton and O'Daniel [Tex.].

Democrats for: Bailey, Bilbo, Radcliffe [Md.], Pepper [Fla.], Mead [N. Y.], McClellan [Ark.], and Magnuson [Wash.].

Not voting: McCarran and Chandler [D., Ky.].

Chicago Is Designated as Navy Flower Center
Secretary of the Navy Forrestal yesterday designated Chicago as the Great Lakes port to which persons desiring to honor service men who died at sea may send flowers to be scattered on the ocean. On Oct. 21 the navy will take the flowers to sea and scatter them after dockside ceremonies. It has been requested any one person send only one flower.

500 GARY PUPILS END TWO WEEK SCHOOL STRIKE

The strike of some 500 white pupils at Froebel grade and high school in Gary, Ind., ended yesterday when the strikers returned to their classrooms. The strike began nearly two weeks ago in protest against the increasing enrollment of Negroes.

Police under Detective Capt. Peter Billick were posted at the school's three entrances and police matrons moved thru the rooms as the youngsters returned. There was no need of them, however, and the school operated on a normal, every day basis, the captain reported.

The end of the strike followed a meeting Sunday between school officials and a committee of parents. The committee later reported to 500 parents at a night meeting. Details of the agreement on which the walk-out ended were not disclosed.

Meanwhile, at Englewood High school in Chicago 500 white students who left classes last week were still absent yesterday. They, too, protested the rise in Negro enrollment. Yesterday a bi-racial meeting was held at the school to discuss the problem. School authorities said they will drop three day absences between 16 and 17 from Englewood and force them to attend continuation school. Those under 16 will be listed as truants.

AD MAN'S DEATH IN BRAWL TO BE PROBED ON OCT. 9

An inquest into the death of Walter Evans, 50, of 205 Herick rd., Riverside, head of an advertising agency bearing his name, who was fatally injured during a brawl in the Roberts cocktail lounge, 26th st. and 1st av., North Riverside, early Saturday, was continued to Oct. 9 yesterday.

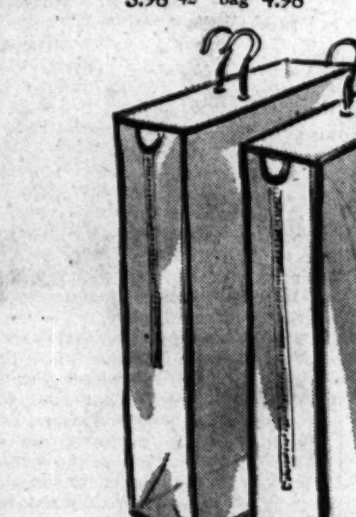

Two men arrested in connection with the affair, Michael Walmsley, 25, of 1835 N. 35th av., and Bruno Kabela, 23, of 1517 N. 34th av., both of Melrose Park, were charged with disorderly conduct yesterday by North Riverside police and released on $25 bond each for appearance Oct. 10.

7 New Polio Cases Raise Chicago's Total to 183

Seven new cases of infantile paralysis were reported over the week-end to bring the total for Chicago to 183 cases and 13 deaths.

No new cases or deaths have been reported in Michigan City, Ind., been reported in the county in a week, Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, director of the Cook county health service, said. Two new cases were reported yesterday to bring the total there to 28 cases and 4 deaths in the last six weeks.

ILLINOIS LOSES BRAY, BUJAN THRU INJURIES Back May Be Out Rest of Season

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 1 (Special)—Eddie Bray, half back, and George Bujan, center, are lost to the Illinois football team for the season because of injuries received against Notre Dame, it was announced today. Bray may be out for the season with a knee injury. Bujan suffered a broken hand in the game, an examination showed. His absence breaks up a strong line back combination, Bujan and Mac Wenskunas, which had proved a major factor in the Illinois defense against both Pitt and Notre Dame.

Hurt in First Scrimmage
Bray was hurt on the first scrimmage of the Notre Dame game, at Phil Collins' swept thru the Illinois defense with a wave of blockers. He said nothing of the injury and stayed in the game for 10 minutes. Then Bob Skoglund, Notre Dame left end, fell on him on a play back of the line of scrimmage, and Bray's right knee collapsed. He was helped off the field and did not return.

HOOSIER COACHES RETURN
Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 1 (Special)—Indiana's football team received added help today as it began preparations for Illinois through the return of its coaching staff to Lt. Carl R. (Swede) Anderson, former back field assistant, and the discharge also from the Navy of Lt. Comdr. C. A. (Timmy) Temerario, who before the war coached Hoosier ends.

The return of Anderson, who has been stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., and the promised aid by Head Coach McMillan, will give Head Coach McMillan a full staff for the first time since the 1941 season.

BADGERS PICK ESSER
Madison, Wis., Oct. 1 (Special)—Clarence Esser, veteran right tackle of the Wisconsin football team, will be acting captain when the Badgers open the Western conference race here on Saturday against Purdue.

Esser played brilliant ball against Marquette last week.

The Badgers emerged from the Marquette game in great shape and should be at their peak for the Bollermakers. Coach Harry Stuhldreher eased off on the drills today but plans immediately to build a defense against the whirlwind Purdue full back, Ed Cody.

TAUPE BACK AT PURDUE
Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 1 (Special)—Mel Taube, veteran member of the Purdue athletic staff who has been on leave of absence for the last 33 months while serving as a lieutenant in the navy, returned to the coaching staff today.

Taube returned to the United States a week ago Saturday after serving as staff athletic officer for the Pacific fleet submarine force and received his discharge last Saturday at Great Lakes.

JOE LOUIS OUT OF ARMY; EAGER TO SEE SERIES
New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Joe Louis made plans less than six hours after getting his army discharge to go to Detroit to see the Tigers "win the world series from the Cubs, four games to two."

Louis told reporters at the St. Nicholas arena tonight, where he was watching Heavyweights Freddie Schott and John Thomas battle:

"I'm going to see every game of the series, and when I'm coming back to see Uncle Mike Jacobs (the promoter) and talk over future plans."

Louis said he then planned to go to California for about two or three months. "I'll take me at least that long to get in shape," Louis added. "My next title fight is going to be with Billy Conn, and I sure hope we'll draw a $3,000,000 gate."

NAVY MAY LOSE THREE BACKS;
EARLEY IS ONE
Annapolis, Oct. 1 (AP)—Ralph Ellsworth, Fred Earley, and George Walsley, back field members of navy's football team, may resign soon from the naval academy.

Academy sources reported that Earley of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Walsley, from Baytown, Tex., were notified that because of physical ailments they could not receive commissions after graduation. Earley, former Notre Dame player, has a chronic knee injury, and Walsley, who starred at Rice, has had heart trouble.

MOON MULLINS
I HAD ALL ABOUT YER AUNT MAMIE BEIN' TH 3RD WARD'S WOLD RASSLIN' CHAMP AND IN TH' BUCKS, BOY, SO—

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 1—Detroit, beset by industrial strife and a gasoline shortage, faced a new crisis today—its seventh world series. . . . The scramble for tickets is worse even than in Chicago, and hotel space is almost nonexistent. . . . The Detroit and Cleveland line has docked two of its biggest steamers, the Greater Detroit and the Western States, near the downtown district to handle part of the overflow crowd. . . . While early arrivals were trying to find a place to live, the Tigers' home town supporters were giving additional evidence of their loyalty. . . . Thousands stood in an early morning rain to welcome the team from St. Louis. . . . The train bearing the American league champions was four hours late, but that made no difference to the faithful. . . . They waited. . . . They had cheers for Manager Steve O'Neill, who finally had a pennant winner after 36 years in baseball. . . . They whooped it up for Hal Newhouser, the only 25 game winner in the major leagues, who probably will oppose the Cubs in the series opener Wednesday. . . . They shouted for Eddie Mayo, key man of the infield; for Virgil Trucks, for Skeeter Webb, and Roy Cullenbine. . . . But most of the throngs' vocal greeting was reserved for big Hank Greenberg, whose home run with the bases full in St. Louis yesterday won for Detroit the American league championship. . . . The team's fans deserve credit for that pennant almost as much as do the players themselves.

. . . Their steadfast support thru a topsy-turvy season came within a few thousand of breaking the all-time attendance record for the league. First of the baseball notables to arrive was Will Harridge, president of the American league, who came from Chicago last night with Mrs. Harridge, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McAvoy, Lew Fonseca, Earl Hilligan, and Edward Lehman. . . . They are quartered at the Book-Cadillac. . . . President Ford Frick of the National league and Commissioner A. B. Chandler are at the Statler. . . . The series, as usual, will attract a parade of screen and stage celebrities. . . . Bob Hope, Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, and Eddie Peabody have tickets for the opening game. . . . This will be the fourth time the series has matched the Tigers and Cubs. . . . Chicago swept four straight games in 1907 and won in five games in 1908, when the Cubs were operating on the west side. . . . The Tigers won in six games in 1935 for Detroit's only world series championship. . . . Among the Cubs' pitchers are two who have given the Tigers no end of trouble in other years. . . . One is old Lon Warneke, whom they never have beaten either in world series or exhibition play. . . . The other is Hank Borowy, who as a Yankee whipped Detroit nine times in 12 starts. . . . Paul Derringer is another Cub moundman Tiger fans still respect. . . . He defeated the Tigers in the seventh and deciding game of the 1940 series when he was operating for Cincinnati. . . . Eight Tigers have had world series experience. . . . Roger Cramer was a member of the 1931 Athletics and Roy Cullenbine played with the Yankees in 1942. . . . Mayo was with the Giants in 1936 and Rudy York was with the Tigers in 1940. . . . Greenberg has been with three of Detroit's pennant winners—1934, 1935, and 1940. . . . Tommy Bridges turned in Tiger victories in 1934, 1935, and 1940. . . . Paul Trout and Newhouser were members of the 1940 Tigers.

Invitory
A handful of coins from a distant land,
A ribbon or two or three,
Letters opened by a loved one's hand,
A memory of the sea;
A valiant grin on a tired face,
And perhaps, some washed tears—
These are the trophies of the chase,
A soldier's souvenirs.

Went down to see the Hill play Pittsburgh. My seat was so high up in the second deck that every time I looked out I saw a cloud.

No truth to the rumor that one of the Cub shortstops will go into the shoe business now that he's so good at making boots.

GRIMM NAMES FORMER YANKEE TO FACE TIGERS

Don Johnson Ready to Play 2d Base

BY EDWARD BURNS
The Chicago Cubs, champions of the National league by virtue of having won 98 victories from adversaries in their own circuit, this afternoon at 2:30 will conduct a pre-world series workout and picture pose in Briggs stadium, home of the Detroit Tigers, winners of 88 games in their league.

Hank Borowy, who will pitch the series opener tomorrow for the Cubs, will cavort just enough for limbering up purposes, being familiar with all the lights and shadows that habitually fill across the Tiger ball park.

Announcement that Borowy will pitch was made by the Cubs' jubilant manager, Charley Grimm, during an eight hour visit he and his camp made to Chicago yesterday en route from Pittsburgh to Detroit, where they arrived last night. Picking Borowy did not come under the head of great world series surprises.

Hank's a Tiger Tamer
Hank's record since coming to the Cubs from the Yankees at the end of last July has been spectacular enough to earn him the opening day assignment, as everybody knows. His record while a Yank also may have had much to do with his getting the assignment. Hank won 11 while pitching in competition with the Tigers as a Yankee. Significant especially is the fact he whipped them twice and they did not nip him at all in the first half of this season before his spectacular purchase by the Cubs.

It was indicated Mickey Livingston will be Borowy's battery mate, as he has been in most of the 13 games Hank has started for the Cubs. Skipper Grimm said he might use Paul Gillespie behind the plate if a right handed pitcher starts for the Tigers. Facing him will be rugged in his hitting against right handers. However, since it is certain Lefty Hal Newhouser will start for the Tigers, the opening day Chicago battery undoubtedly will be Borowy and Livingston.

Cubs Vote on Series Split
Yesterday's check-up indicated that Grimm will be able to go into the series at full strength, the particular news in this announcement being that Second Baseman Don Johnson probably will be restored to the lineup, perfectly sound. Don was hurt in the recent Cub visit to Cincinnati when he wrenched his neck in a freak collision with Umpire Babe Pate. Yesterday's regular players voted the shares in the split of the world series pot. Manager Grimm made certain before the voting that no real subject matter would be supplied by the Tigers as it was given the Yankees in Grimm's first pennant year as a manager, in 1932.

The Grimm had nothing to do with the last year, he was deeply chagrined in 1938 when only half share was voted to Mark Koenig, a former Yank, who contributed vitally to the Cubs' pennant success, after joining late in midseason. The Yankees in the world series promptly and logically labeled the rumormongers in the voting as baseball's greatest tightwads—and took great zest in bowling over the Cubs, four straight, with Babe Ruth dealing out particular ridicule to the tight-fisted gentry in a most devastating manner.

Cubs Run Into Hotel Jam
So, if the present Cubs voted Borowy a half share yesterday it will not be known until Commissioner A. B. Chandler sends out the checks after the series. However, while waiting in the meantime, while voting a half share to Borowy would be no more startling than the half-cut given Koenig, you can bet this bunch of Cubs weren't on the shorts in yesterday's balloting.

Members of the Cub party last night, who were staying at the Hotel Statler and on two lake boats, docked to relieve the Detroit inn stringency. Manager Grimm was billeted at the Book-Cadillac, some of his players were at the Statler and the Detroit Leland, while other members of Traveling Secretary Bobby Lewis' thundering herd were billeted at the Fort Shelby.

Fight Decisions
At Marigold Gardens, Night World knocked out Bill Peterson (61); Jimmy Martin beat Roy Lewis (51); Larry Scott beat Leroy Scott (51); Jack Hill beat Leroy Scott (51); Chick Felt won from Gene Simmons by disqualification (41).
A New York-Fred Schott knocked out John Thomas (51).

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1 (AP)—Tommy Holmes, Boston Braves outfielder, and Eddie Mayo, second baseman of the Detroit Tigers, were 1945's valuable players in the major leagues in selections announced today by the Sporting News, national baseball weekly.

Continuing the special awards for pitchers inaugurated last year, the Sporting News chose Hank Borowy of the Chicago Cubs and for the second successive year Hal Newhouser of the American league's Detroit Tigers.

HAWKS TO START TRAINING TODAY;
13 MEN REPORT
REGINA, Sask., Oct. 1 (Special)—Thirteen western Canada hockey players reported here today to Manager Johnny Gottselig for the Chicago Blackhawks' training season which will start tomorrow. Manager Gottselig plans two work outs a day for the next 15 days.

Among those who appeared were Dave MacKay of Vancouver, who left the Hawks for military duty four seasons ago; Alex Kalet, Red Hamill, and Reg Hamilton. Hamill was one of the National Hockey league's leading scorers while a member of the Boston Bruins. Hamilton recently was purchased from the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Peter Horeck, former Cleveland star who was with the Hawks last season, also reported. Manager Gottselig is hopeful that an additional 12 players will be in camp Wednesday.

Montreal Wins, Reduces
Newark Lead to 1 Game
Newark, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—Collecting 16 hits off three Newark pitchers, while Jean Pierre Roy was pitching a two hit game, the Montreal Royals defeated the Bears, 7 to 2, tonight to score their second triumph in the International league's final playoff. The Bears won the first three games of the seven game set.

THIRTEEN CUBS READY TO WRITE BASEBALL HISTORY

36 Collect $948 Hawthorne Double; 1 Fan Wins $4,743

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN
The boys and girls who sometimes forget the names of the horses but know that No. 11 is a "natural" had a high old time yesterday at Hawthorne. There were 37 speculators who chose the 11-11 combination in the daily double and 36 of them realized $948.60, while one got five times that much for a $10 ticket when Silver Mile scored in the first race and Sugar Beet in the second. It was the largest double return of the 21 days at the Sticksney track, and there have been several good ones since the strip became muddy over a week ago.

Silver Mile Returns $108.20
Silver Mile, owned by M. G. Farnsworth, an Illinois breeder, and ridden by A. L. Fay, whipped 11 others in a six and one-half furlong affair and returned $108.20, $41, and $19.80. The thoroughbred, 4 year old son of Silver Cord, had finished 11th and 9th in two previous starts.

There was some excuse for Sugar Beet's victory, the 4 year old gelding having finished first and second in four previous starts. He is owned by Charles Passarelli of New Orleans, La., and was ridden by Rodrick Hartwick. The mutuels were $20.40, $9.20, and $7.

Commissarioner Loses Rider
Miss Gazer, a 3 year old gelding and ridden by J. Dean Jessop, rewarded the chalk favorites, Commissioner ran away and was scratched after going a full mile without her rider, Claude Hooper.

A crowd of 8,905 was on hand despite the inclement weather and the mutuel handle totaled $717,745. The feature of the afternoon, titled the Lake Zurich, which was contested over six and a half furlongs of ground, saw Mr. and Mrs. Monte Well's Private Joe walk off with the honors. Winter Song was second and Rockwood Argo, third. Private Joe, ridden by Billy Nichols, broke fast from the gate to take a short lead, but was taken back to follow the pace of Winter Song. Entering the stretch Private Joe made his move, caught the leader, and drew out to win handily by a length and a half. His mutuel return was $420 for $2.

Chicago Gates Total 1,037,028
The Yankees also made the million club in the final two days of the campaign and three teams did the job in the National. Brooklyn's 1,064,668 was high in the senior circuit followed by New York's 1,038,198 and Chicago's 1,037,028. It was the first time the Giants ever had drawn a million in the history of the Polo Grounds and, of course, the first time all three New York clubs had gone into seven figures in paid attendance.

Failure to repeat as American champions cost the St. Louis Browns a few thousand paid, making them the only team in the circuit failing to better the 1944 figures. Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati all missed matching last year's marks in the National but only the Reds, who lost 136,507 or more than 30 per cent, suffered a serious relapse.

Dodgers Show Biggest Gain
Brooklyn's gain of 446,475 was the largest, representing an increase of over 70 per cent on last year's disappointing turnout of 618,193. The unexpected surge of the Dodgers who led the league for a stretch and finished a surprising third did the trick and also helped the Giants who led the league for a stretch and finished a surprising third did the trick and also helped the Giants into the big money class by drawing 224,718 to their 11 Polo Grounds engagements.

In addition to the Giants and Cubs, the Boston Braves showed a fine increase of about 65 per cent over their 1944 totals under the influence of Tommy Holmes' sensational hitting.

The previous American league high was 5,433,791 in 1940, the same year the majors had set their former record of 10,281,891.

WILDCATS LOOK FOR TROUBLE IN MICHIGAN GAME

N. U. Players Are All in Good Condition

The psychological edge which Northwestern enjoyed against Indiana last week, will not be present when the Wildcats meet Michigan in Dyche stadium Saturday in the second conference game for both teams.

"Indiana was unprepared for us mentally," Coach Lynn Waldorf said yesterday, "but we do not anticipate any such good fortune against Michigan."

On the contrary, the Wildcats expect the Wolverines to be keyed to a high pitch as a result of their surprise, 13 to 7, setback at the hands of the Hoosiers two weeks ago. Northwestern's players emerged from the Indiana game in good physical shape. Ken Wilgen, first string right end, who did not play against Indiana because of illness, will be ready for the Michigan game Saturday. Stan Gorski, who replaced Wilgen in the starting lineup and played 60 minutes against Indiana, probably will start against the Wolverines.

RAIN SLOWS UP MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 1 (Special)—Fritz Crisler and his Michigan football all stars players turned attention to Western conference competition again this afternoon after checking motion pictures of Saturday's 40 to 0 victory over Michigan State.

The Wolverines will go on the road for the first time this season after three home appearances to meet Northwestern in Evanston Saturday. Beaten by Indiana in the first Big Nine start, Michigan players and coaches are determined to even up their conference record.

FITCH REJOINS GOPHERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 1 (Special)—Bob Fitch, star football end and national discus champion before the war, decided today to go out for the Minnesota football team again. Previously undecided because of a heavy classroom schedule after his discharge from the coast guard, Fitch likely will see action in the Nebraska game in Lincoln Saturday. Dal Ward, Minnesota's freshman coach prior to the war, returned to that post today after more than three years in the navy. The return of Ward brings the coaching staff to its pre-war status.

OHIO DRILLS IN RAIN

Columbus, O., Oct. 1 (Special)—Ohio State's football team went through a short workout in the rain today after viewing pictures of the 47 to 6 victory over Missouri last Saturday.

All of the Buckeyes came out of the Missouri game without serious injury. Only Jerry Kral, substitute half back, was on the ailing list with a bruised back. Work for the Iowa game here next Saturday will start in earnest tomorrow with a scrimmage session scheduled for Wednesday.

TWO SEAHAWKS JOIN IOWA

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 1 (Special)—Iowa today started work for the conference opener at Ohio State Saturday cheered by the 14 to 13 victory over Bergstrom field and by the acquisition of two former Iowa Seahawk players—Lawrence Germska of Raritan, N. J., a 182-pound full back from Minnate, Neb. They are in good condition and should work into the Iowa style quickly. Coach Clem Crowe said.

Hunters Open Fire on Hens; 5,000 Bagged

BY BEN MARKLAND

More than a thousand shotgunners signalled the opening of the 1945 mud hen hunting season in northern Illinois yesterday morning. Most of the hunters were on Grass lake near Antioch, main gathering point for the web footed fowls on their annual migration.

Frank Bellrose Jr., game technician of the Illinois Natural History survey, estimated 5,000 mud hens were killed during the first three hours of the bombardment in Lake and McHenry counties, the only area open for early season shooting. He said it was one of the poorest opening days in many years. On the last three previous opening days about 20,000 mud hens were killed on Grass lake.

Weather Causes Shortage

Bellrose said the cool weather of last week-end drove most of the mud hens to the Illinois river valley, with only 6,000 to 7,000 birds left for the opening day hunters. Additional flights are expected on Grass lake in the next two weeks. W. E. Crouch, chief of the game management division of the United States Fish and Wildlife service, who witnessed the shoot, said his department considers the mud hen a "nuisance bird" because of its competition with mallards, pintails, and other ducks for natural feeds.

Seaman Bags Limit

"Mud hens are multiplying too fast in the country as a whole," he said, "and unless their numbers are controlled they will destroy too much valuable duck food." He added that there is no other area in the country where mud hens are so intensively hunted as on Grass lake.

Among the successful hunters were Mrs. Norma DeLand, 1046 Washington Blvd., Oak Park, and her son, Bobby, age 11. They bagged 20 mud hens in two hours. Roger Drile, 1624 Highland av., Berwyn, bagged 15. Fred W. Smith, 1215 E. 1st, killed a limit of 25 birds. Jerry Fenger, Antioch, and Ray Lubkeman, Channel Lake, each brought down the limit of 25 mud hens.

FIVE NOTRE DAME PLAYERS PLACED ON INJURED LIST

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 1 (Special)—Five Notre Dame football players, including two who started the Illinois game last Saturday, were on the injured list this afternoon, as the Irish began preparations for the second game of the season, against Georgia Tech in Atlanta Saturday. John Mastrangelo, left guard, with a broken finger on his left hand, and a bad shoulder and ankle, and Elmer Angstrom, right half back, who suffered a badly bruised hip in the Illinois contest, are the two regulars on the sidelines. Angstrom probably will not be able to play Saturday. Also injured are Bill Fischer, freshman tackle, who wrenched his knee; Stan Krivack, second string full back, bruised ribs, and Vince Scott, sub guard, bad ankle.

SCHOTT WINS BY KNOCKOUT OVER THOMAS IN 9TH

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Freddie Schott, undefeated heavyweight from Akron, O., knocked out John Thomas of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the ninth round of a scheduled 10 round bout at the St. Nicholas arena tonight. A crowd of 2,971, including Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, back in civvies after nearly four years in the army, witnessed an action packed bout.

Fenger and Parker, making their official gridiron start in the south section of the City High school league, battled to a 6 to 6 tie last night in Shawfield field in a game which was postponed from last Friday.

Both eleven went scoreless during the first quarter. Fenger scored its touchdown in the second period when Bob Carlson went thru the center of the line from the 1 yard strip.

In the third quarter, Parker rallied to tally its touchdown on a 9 yard run by Russell Setzke, who replaced John Newman at right half. Parker's touchdown was scored by Lindroth. Parker's defense held Fenger's drive to a field goal by Lindroth. Parker's defense held Fenger's drive to a field goal by Lindroth.

Calumet City, 19; Kankakee, 0. Calumet City, which went thru its South Suburban league schedule last year without a victory, opened its 1945 season auspiciously by routing Kankakee, 19 to 0, at Calumet City. The game was postponed from Friday night.

FORMIDABLE

The knowledge and initiative that builds fortunes often misses fire when applied to management of the funds accumulated.

For investment administration is a specialized function, one consuming time and considerable effort. It does not lend itself to haphazard, spasmodic attention.

Professional investment counsel provides each client experience, impartial judgment, constant vigilance, and broad knowledge based on continued, comprehensive research.

Proved, full time investment counsel is available to conservative individuals with funds of $50,000 or more. Discussion is invited, without obligation.

30 INCOME STOCKS

All have paid uninterrupted dividends anywhere from 11 to 93 years.

They now offer yields running up to 5 1/2 percent, and we expect substantially higher payments from most of them.

All are of semi-investment quality.

Yet they could show material price appreciation in a rising market.

28 Years

For 28 years this firm has been serving investors. We suggest you avail yourself of our facilities to select securities that appear to be underpriced. Purchases may be made for cash or carried on a conservative margin.

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—The maritime commission has "paid out millions of dollars to people who had absolutely no investment" other than "moral assets," Rep. Weichel (R., O.) told the house today. He made the assertion during discussion of legislation detailing the method of disposing of surplus merchant ships owned by the government.

"In many instances the commission purchased the land on which the yards were built, erected the buildings, installed the machinery and equipment, paid for all the material and labor used in the building of ships, and paid executive salaries as high as $25,000 each for merely carrying out the blue print instructions provided by the maritime commission," said Weichel.

Charges Indiscriminate Payments
"The treasury of the United States paid for each item that went into the building of the yards, the building of the ships, and the payment of labor, yet the maritime commission paid out millions of dollars to people who had absolutely no investment whatsoever in the yard, the material, or any other item connected with the building of the ships."

Attack Term "Unfortunate"
Rep. Bonner (D., N. C.), member of the house merchant marine committee, said it was "unfortunate" that Weichel injected his attack on the maritime commission into the debate, asserting that it had no bearing on the sale of ships.

Rep. Keefe (R., Wis.) replied that the persons who Weichel said had profited without investment may appear as ship purchasers "with their ill-gotten gains."

SHAREHOLDERS
APPROVE SPLIT
IN SEARS STOCK

Sears, Roebuck & Co. shareholders yesterday approved a four for one split of the common stock with an authorized increase in shares from six to 24 million. A. S. Barrows, president, announced. Stockholders of record at the close of business yesterday will receive a certificate for three additional shares for each share held. The split will not affect the capital or surplus of the company. The management believes the step will result in wider distribution of Sears shares, and thus increase the public's interest in the company's business, said Barrows.

Bell & Howell Company
Bell & Howell company announced the resignation of Knute Petersen, assistant secretary, and Edwin A. Koch, assistant treasurer, effective yesterday. Both will enter business for themselves, Petersen in Chicago, and Koch in Kansas City, Mo.

SANTA FE COMPLETES
TESTS OF FM AND AM
RAIL RADIO SYSTEMS

Simultaneous testing of frequency modulation and amplitude modulation railway radio communication systems—utilizing equipment of comparable engineering specifications under identical operating conditions—was completed yesterday by the Santa Fe railway in cooperation with Farnsworth Television and Radio corporation.

The tests, conducted in the Santa Fe Corwith yards, 38th and Central park av., showed both systems are capable of giving satisfactory service in railway operation, the railroad said. Both systems have advantages, and a choice would depend on the economic, installation, operation, and maintenance factors involved in individual projects. The tests were conducted between moving diesel locomotives and fixed stations in the yards up to a distance of about six miles.

REFUSED TO JOIN IN FIXING PRICES,
SAYS A. & P. CHIEF

Danville, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP)—Robert M. Smith, president of the southern division of the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, testified today he told the Miami, Fla., Retail Trade association he could not join the group because of its price fixing activities. These activities were "against A. & P. policy," he said. The food chain and 28 officers and subsidiaries are on trial on charges of violating the federal anti-trust laws.

A government witness, Ben Williams, former secretary of the Miami association, testified previously that the organization issued weekly price lists which were sent to A. & P. but A. & P. neither agreed nor disagreed on following them.

Bernhardt Mosler, president of the Frankford company, retail owned cooperative, Philadelphia, testified his group had 1,464 stores in 12 states in the same area in which A. & P. had 25. He said gross sales of member grocers increased from 2 million dollars in 1918, when A. & P. opened stores in that area, to more than 14 millions in 1943.

Halsey Fights Proposed
Utility Private Bond Sale

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 1 (AP)—The railroad commission today heard the protests of John Francis Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago investment brokers, against the proposed private sale by Pacific Gas and Electric company of 49 million dollars of refunding bonds. The firm asked that the utility company be required to submit its security issues to competitive bids.

Chicago Hog
Top Increase
Believed Near

The office of price administration is planning to raise within a few days the ceiling price for hogs in Chicago in an attempt to obtain a more uniform distribution of the small available supply, it was learned yesterday. The report reached the market as pork production in this area slumped to a new record low for an October Monday.

Receipts of hogs in this region have been abnormally low all year, resulting partly from the relatively low prices imposed on the Chicago hog market.

Goes to Other Areas
This permitted other parts of the country to siphon off volume that under normal conditions would come to Chicago.

Last month's hog receipts of 163,026 head, the lowest for September on record, were 111,735 short of a year ago, and 201,679 below two years ago. In 1942, prior to hog price control, the September run was 406,203.

Chicago packers paid ceiling prices again for practically all hogs offered in a vain attempt to maintain volume.

Supplies of Cattle Small
Cattle receipts of 18,500 head were smaller for a Monday in seven weeks. Best steers were firm at ceiling prices, with about 20 car loads reaching the $18 a hundred pounds limit. Most steers were steady. Heifers were steady, and beef cows, common and cutters were strong to 15 cents higher. Bulls were weak to 25 cents lower and calves were steady.

The supply of native lambs sold mostly steady at $14.25 and lower. Old mutton ewes brought $6.25.

WASHER PRICE CEILING FIXED;
REBUFF HURLEY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—Retail ceiling prices on new washing machines and ironers will range from $29.95 to $199.95, the office of price administration announced today. Manufacturers are being given a 7.7 per cent increase over the Hurley machine division of the Electrical Household Utilities corporation, Chicago, OPA said the Hurley division had reduced its low priced production, contrary to regulations.

CHARGES PUSHING AROUND
Edward N. Hurley, president of Electric Household Utilities corporation, charged in Chicago last night that "the OPA is pushing our company around worse than Gen. MacArthur is pushing the Japs." The OPA action in denying the Hurley division a "necessary increase" for modern household equipment is another example of bureaucracy at its worst, he asserted. "It looks like it will be hard peace for the American business man," he added.

EASE NEWSPRINT
CURBS 1 DEGREE
IN 4TH QUARTER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—Publishers may use more newsprint during the fourth quarter under their consumption quotas, WPB said today. In line with a recommendation of the newspaper industry advisory committee, WPB relaxed by one degree the amount which may be consumed under the sliding scale of percentage reduction set up by the newsprint limitation order.

The percentage of cuts which must be applied by newspaper users to their quarterly adjusted base tonnage follows: 2 per cent of the amount over 25 tons but not over 125 tons, 4 per cent of the amount over 125 tons but not over 250 tons, 6 per cent over 250 tons but not over 500 tons, 10 per cent over 500 tons but not over 1,000 tons, and 12 per cent over 1,000 tons.

SURPLUS CHIEF
DECENTRALIZES
DISPOSAL JOBSymington Sworn In One Man Post

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—W. Stuart Symington was sworn in today as surplus property administrator and immediately announced a policy of decentralization he said was aimed at speeding up disposal of surplus goods.

The oath of office was administered by Supreme Court Justice Douglas. Symington, a former St. Louis businessman, takes over direction of the agency from the old three member surplus property board, of which he was chairman. The switch to a single administrator, recommended by President Truman, was approved by congress last week.

Faces 4 Big Problems
Symington immediately appointed five assistant administrators. He listed four disposal problems which he described as paramount:

1. Making it simple for veterans to exercise their preference rights in buying surplus goods.
2. Expediting clearance of government property from war plants.
3. Achievement of more effective and rapid disposal of surplus goods with "special emphasis" on the needs of preferred groups.
4. Speedy disposal of war plants and their machine tools for peace time operations.

Names New Assistants
The new administrative branches and their chiefs are:
Capital and producers goods, David H. O'Brien of Hackettstown, N. J., formerly director of distribution for the army signal corps, and vice president of the Graybar Electric company, New York.

Consumers goods, Merritt C. Pentecoff, previously vice chairman in charge of operations of the war production board, and earlier associated with Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Operations, Col. G. E. Monson, who during the war was attached to the staff of the commanding general, 1st marine amphibious corps.

Economic research, Dr. Raymond T. Bowman, formerly economic adviser to the office of contract settlements.

Public information and policies, Lt. Col. John M. Redding of Chicago, who was chief of public relations for the 12th army group.

TWO COMPANIES
SUED OVER USE OF WELD SYSTEM

Linde Air Products company, Hammond, Ind., a subsidiary of Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, said yesterday it has filed suit in federal court for the northern Indiana district against Graver Tank and Manufacturing company, Chicago, and Lincoln Electric company, Cleveland, O., for alleged patent infringement in connection with the use of the Unionmelt welding process.

The process of welding beneath a mineral melt has been rated as one of the most important factors in the large war time fabrication of steel, Linde said. It joins steel of any commercial thickness at high speed without flash, glare, or sparks, he explained.

FIRST POST-WAR
FURNITURE SHOW
TO BEGIN JAN. 7

Chicago's first post-war furniture show will open Jan. 7 for 13 days when the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart hold their winter home furnishings markets, mart officials said yesterday. Thousands of buyers are expected as the regular summer market was not held this year.

Lawrence H. Whiting, Furniture Mart president, and John C. Goodall, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, said merchants have been awaiting information of available merchandise, new products, and details on post-war distribution plans. The markets were termed "a preview" of things to come.

New Synthetic Held Superior to Pre-War Passenger Tire

BY THOMAS FURLONG
The B. F. Goodrich company announced yesterday that it has developed a synthetic passenger automobile tire which it described as superior in wearing quality to the pre-war natural rubber tire.

Only 0.3 per cent of the rubber used in the tire is natural rubber, the balance consisting of a special variety of the government synthetic known as GR-S-10.

The company limited its claim to the statement that the tire is superior in wearing quality to the pre-war passenger tire. No statement was made about its adaptability for truck and tractor use.

Displayed at Luncheon
The tire was displayed at a luncheon in the Bismarck hotel at which A. C. Kelly, Goodrich regional manager, explained the changes in construction and design that are incorporated in it.

"It should be made clear," said Kelly, "that the advent of this tire does not mean that synthetic rubber itself is now equal to or the superior of natural rubber for use in tires. The chief reason for the high performance record expected for this new tire is the strength and durability achieved in it thru construction changes."

Kelly added that the use of a rosin soap base as an emulsifying agent also is an important factor in getting better wear, cooler running and greater resistance to carcass bruising and cracking in the GR-S-10 tire. In other synthetics fatty acid soap is used as an emulsifying agent.

Contact Area Is Larger
The area of the tire that comes in contact with the pavement is larger than in the conventional pre-war tire. It rolls more squarely and flatter along the pavement. This results in a wider distribution of weight, less scuffing of the tread, and greater stability, Kelly said.

When the new tire will be available to eligible motorists is uncertain, he said. About 15 per cent of the company's output of passenger tires in November will be devoted to the new type tire. By December 75 per cent of the passenger tires it produces will be of the new type. Early next year production will be entirely converted to the new type.

In New York, John L. Collyer, Goodrich president, said dependence on the synthetic would be increased if costs of natural rubber should not be held reasonably low or stable, because the synthetic can be produced for as little as 12 cents a pound exclusive of amortization, depreciation, distribution costs, and return on investment.

ACT QUICKLY TO GET SURPLUS COTTON ON MARKET, U. S. URGED
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—The United States should take immediate advantage of its world position to get rid of some 6 million bales of surplus cotton, Rep. Mahon (D., Tex.) suggested to President Truman today.

"We have the ships to carry the cotton," he said. "We have control of the ports and warehouses in many parts of the world and there is an urgent need in those countries for cotton, so why shouldn't we do something about it. Six months from now might be too late. The President expressed interest in the proposal, Mahon said, adding that on Secretary of State Byrnes' return from London he would take it up in more detail with the state department chief.

REQUEST COURT TO THROW OUT
RAIL RATE CASE
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1 (AP)—Twenty railroads asked the United States Supreme court today to throw out Georgia's complaint that the roads had fixed rates which restrained trade by discriminating against southern states.

The court agreed last March to consider Georgia's complaint. At the request of the railroads Georgia later filed an amended complaint giving additional details of its attack on the rate structures.

The rails 12 of them so called northern lines and the remainder southern companies, in answers presented to the court today denied "all charges of discrimination, coercion and other wrong doing."

Hub Votes Initial 20 Cent Dividend on New Common
Directors of the Hub, Henry C. Lytton & Co., yesterday declared an initial dividend of 20 cents a share on the new $1 par common stock.

Even Special Emissary Falls
Prime Minister Peter Fraser revealed new advice indicated that expansion of the nation's power net would not be possible before the winter of 1947.

Even the dispatching of a special emissary to London and repeated representations by Fraser and Finance Minister Walter Nash, to the British, that New Zealand desperately needed the plant planned to draw a promise of a speed up in delivery.

Coincidentally, British firms teamed to extract maximum prices for the equipment from the New Zealand government, Nash charged. Officials estimated that the British bids were 25 per cent above the level warranted.

Installment Sales
Insured...

Installment sales often come to an unprofitable end when a buyer encounters financial trouble due to accident, sickness or hospitalization. This risk now can be insured. At small cost, accident-sickness-hospital protection can be made a part of the sale contract... eliminating repossessions for the seller... loss of product for the buyer.

STOCK MARKET
SURGES HIGHER
IN HEAVY TRADESome Large Gains
Pared Near Close

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The stock market today surged higher in the liveliest trading in three months, the averages reaching new peaks for more than eight years. Secretary of the Treasury Vinson's recommendation to congress for substantial tax cuts helped boost the list.

Altho steels, oils, a few rails and assorted "blue chips" exhibited strength from the start, the heaviest activity was in low quoted utilities which appeared in 1,000 to 32,000 share blocks. Among these, more than a narrow price range, were United corporation, Commonwealth, and Southern, Columbia Gas, and American Power and Light.

Gains, ranging from 1 to 4 points for favorites, were reduced here and there in the final hour, but advances were far in the majority as the close. Transfers totaled 1,990,000 shares, compared with 1,380,000 on Friday. Volume on the Curb was 740,000 shares against 540,000.

End of CMP Aids Steels
The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.6 to 71.6, equalling the peak of April 21, 1937. The industrial advanced 0.3 to 85.3, highest figure since Aug. 24, 1937. Trade was the broadest since June 28. Of 984 issues registering, 613 rose and 186 declined.

Elimination of the government's controlled materials plan and expectations of lifted ceilings on certain steel products spurred United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, and other steels.

General Motors closed unchanged and Chrysler lost a wide gain to finish up only 1/4.

A New York Stock exchange membership was sold for $77,000, an increase of $3,000 and the highest price since $79,000 was paid Oct. 7, 1938. The closing quotation was $69,000 bid, $68,000 asked.

BONDS CHANGE LITTLE
New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Selected rail loans and a few industrial specialties rose in today's bond market as the main corporate list held in a narrow range. Top prices were shaded in many instances in late dealings when offerings increased in secondary carrier loans, industrials, utilities and foreign loans were little changed. Sales of $5,400,000 compared with $6,470,000 last Friday.

CHICAGO LIST IS STRONG
Prices advanced strongly and turnover increased to 56,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock Exchange. Ninety-three issues advanced in a broad 13 issue trade, and only 15 declined. More active issues included Butler Brothers, up 3 to a 1945 high of 25, and Pure Oil, Advance Aluminum, Chicago corporation, and Asbestos Manufacturing, all up fractions. Also at peaks were Spiegel, up 1 1/4, and United States Steel, up 1 1/4.

GRAIN FUTURES

WHEAT, RYE SET PEAKS

Grain futures prices advanced, some of them 1 cent a bushel or more, yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. All deliveries of wheat and rye reached new seasonal peaks and oats and barley were highest since August as the result of broad commission house and professional buying stimulated by strength in securities, reports that higher government prices are likely to be offered for spring wheat, and inflation talk.

Despite heavy profit taking, closing prices were near the top. Wheat gained 1/4 cent to 1 1/4 cents, oats 1/4 cent to 1 1/4 cents, and barley 1/4 cent to 1 1/4 cents. Mills were aggressive buyers of wheat futures, regarded as against enlarged flour sales induced by the higher government subsidy.

POULTRY FUTURE TRADING ACTIVE IN FIRST SESSION

Spirited bidding marked the first day of trading in frozen dressed poultry futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the first such market on any produce exchange. Bidding was chiefly on turkey, and one carload of 30,000 pounds of young turkeys, 15 pounds and above, sold at 41.40 cents a pound for November delivery. Live young turkeys sold at about 31 cents a pound.

Egg futures changed widely in active trading. After rising as much as 1 cent a dozen, prices fell more than 1 1/4 cents on profit taking and closed down 0.25 to 0.60 cent.
